STATE CASES SET FOR TRIAL

One Against Blakemon and Ferguson
For Blackmail Will be Tried
Monday, Sept. 30.

JOHN RYAN CASE NEXT DAY

Dismissal of Suit Marks Close of Seward Liquor License Tangle—
Other Court Acts.

Judge Blair today set two criminal cases for trial, that of the State against William Blakemon and John Ferguson, both colored, for blackmail, and that of the State against John Ryan for assault and battery. The former will be tried Monday, September 30, and the latter will be tried the next day, Tuesday, October first.

Both cases are on grand jury indictments returned in the April term of court. It will be remembered the two colored men were indicted previous to the April indictment, and it was quashed for technical reasons. The men are charged with blackmailing Marion McCann.

The trouble first started when Blakemon brought suit for damages against McCann, charging he alienated his (Blakemon's) wife affections. This civil suit was sent to Hancock circuit court at Greenfield on a change of venue and was to come up for trial today. It will be recalled Blakemon could not get bond at first and an unsuccessful effort was made to get his release on a writ of habeas corpus. He later was released on bond.

The indictment was returned against John Ryan, a road supervisor of Richland township, because of his alleged attack on the trustee of the township when the latter attempted to obtain a road scraper in Ryan's possession. Ryan declared he was still supervisor because his successor had not been named. A successor was elected but could not serve on account of other duties, and the trustee appointed one.

The injunction and damage suit, in which $500 was demanded of Basil Seward, a local saloon keeper, against Clara Bebout, sheriff, and Merrill Ball, John E. Harrison and T. J. Humes, commissioners, was dismissed today by the plaintiff, and the judgment for court costs was assessed against him by Judge Blair. This action was brought after the commissioners and sheriff obtained a restraining order to close his business on the theory that he was not entitled to a license under the law, according to the quota of saloons allowed here in proportion to the population.

The suit was the outgrowth of the refusal of the commissioners to grant Seward a license. The case was appealed to the circuit court and taken to the Franklin circuit court where a license was granted.

The commissioners heard a petition which alleged that Seward did not own the saloon and that the government license had been taken under another name. They found for the petitioner and the case was appealed to the circuit court, and then sent to the Marion circuit court on a change of venue. The Marion county court reversed the decision of the commissioners.

In the case of Frank Wilson against Edward A. Frazee and son, Edward Frazee for $1200 damages, asked for injuries sustained to a horse run into by the defendants' automobile, the plaintiff dismissed the suit as the first defendant, the father, and filed an amended complaint as to the son. Recently Judge Blair held that the father could not

WHAT DOES IT ALL MEAN?

Inscription on Bull Moose Pin May Mean Something.

Ben McFarlan, county chairman of the Bull Moose party, has received a consignment of Bull Moose pins from Indianapolis. They consist of a miniature Bull Moose, with the inscription "P. T. A. P." across the head of the moose. The inscription has worried a lot of people considerably. They can not understand what the letters stand for. It has been suggested that they mean "Progressive Theodore Albert Party."

AT LAST SECRET IS GIVEN PUBLICITY

Richmond Newspapers Announce Deposed Bull Moose Nominee Settled Claims Held by Company.

ARE SAID TO BE ABOUT $2500

The Richmond newspapers are out with a story that Joseph A. Greenstreet, deposed sixth district nominee of the Bull Moose party, has made a satisfactory settlement with the stockholders of the Charter Oak and Handle Company as regards the claims which are said to have been standing against him since 1905. The Palladium says:

The exact amount of the settlement was not given out by the attorney for the stockholders, but he did not deny the fact that the outstanding claims of $2500 were liquidated in the settlement.

Immediately following the district convention which was held in Richmond September 3, Mr. Greenstreet made the assertion that he did not consider that he owed the Charter Oak and Handle company any money, and that if they had any claim against him he invited them to collect it, stating that he was collecting. He said that he had an undivided third interest in his father's estate, which estate was valued at $50,000.

After Mr. Greenstreet's statement was published the stockholders, through their attorney, immediately took steps to collect the amount due. A demand was made and suit threatened, with the result that satisfactory settlement was made yesterday.

LEVI AND RAINEY TRIAL POSTPONED

Jake Williams, Victim of Cutting, is Unable to Appear and Case
Was Not Heard.

DATE HAS NOT BEEN DECIDED

The trial of Claude Levi and Will Rainey, charged jointly with assault with intent to kill Jake Williams, which was set for this afternoon, was postponed for two reasons. The first is that Williams was unable to appear because the cut on his leg has not sufficiently healed. The second reason given was because Prosecutor Morgan was too busy with the closing session of the grand jury. During the rush of business connected with the dismissing of the grand jury Mr. Morgan could not have acted in the mayor's court even if Williams had been able to appear.

Williams is still confined to his room and the case may not be heard for several days.

IS AMOUNT MORE THAN REPORTED?

Indications Point That Roy Murphy
Got Considerable Over $363.10
In Gasoline Swindle.

AMOUNT FOR ONLY ONE BOOK

First Order in That Taken After he Had Been Here Some Time—
Still in Jail.

Did Roy Murphy, who was arrested yesterday on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, get more money from Rush county people on his cheap gasoline scheme than was first thought? The police are of the opinion that he got by with considerable more than was first reported, which was $363.10.

This opinion is based on the fact that Murphy had two order books and the sum of $363.10 was taken from one of the books found on his person.

It is known that Murphy had the two books printed in this city but what became of the other one is not known. The first order given in the book which is in possession of the police, was given by Charles Caldwell.

The order of Mr. Caldwell came to Murphy indirectly and was given several weeks after he had started work on the swindle. Mr. Caldwell gave his order to John Stiers, who, in turn, gave it to Murphy.

As Murphy had been working here some time the police believe he had filled one of the books with orders and collected the money. In this way it is estimated that he got several hundred dollars more money than the one book shows.

The case when it comes before the grand jury may reveal several things that are not known. It is estimated the Murphy may be forced to explain where he spent the money obtained here and from rumors this may expose a gambling joint not known to exist by the police. Murphy got rid of the money in some unknown manner, because when arrested and searched he didn't have enough to purchase a postage stamp. The money was not deposited in any of the local banks and the future developments may be interesting.

While Murphy led a pretty fast life while business was good, it can not be determined where he ever spent the $363.10. He is known to have been a good fellow on more than one occasion and at all times apparently had plenty of money. His swindle worked, but he stayed just a little bit too long. Murphy was unable to get bail and is still in jail.

INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Cleo Lummis of Carthage is Thrown From Wagon.

Cleo Lummis, a farm hand in the employ of the Rev. Charles S. Winslow, suffered a dislocated knee Wednesday when he was thrown from a wagon load of tomatoes. He was driving a horse and a mule. Meeting an automobile he braced himself but the tomato box on which he was sitting gave way and pitched the man forward. He fell between the team. The accident occurred just north of Ernest Heims. Mrs. Heims telephoned to Rue P. Henley's and Mrs. Henley stopped the team. Mr. Winslow was called and brought Mr. Lummis to a physician.

MEN TO RESCUE OF HORSE SHOW

Committees Are at Work Today Endeavoring to Get Sufficient Financial Backing For Fall Event.

RESULT OF LAST NIGHT'S MEET

Secretary J. C. Ryburn Makes Report
Showing $314.16 Now on Hands.

Although the annual fall horse show is not practically assured, the prospect for it look decidedly improved today after the meeting of business men in the court house last night in its welfare.

The crowd did not number over thirty, but all the men there had the interests of the horse show at heart and wanted to see it succeed. On motion of Will M. Bliss, H. G. Hackman, president of the Retail Merchants Association, who presided at the meeting, appointed several committees who were assigned to various sections of the city to seek subscriptions to finance the show.

The committees went at it this morning with a vim and enthusiasm that promised success for their efforts. It is reported that the solicitors met with some success, but it will not be known until tomorrow for a certainty that there is enough financial backing to make the horse show possible.

Anthony Schrieche, former president of the Retail Merchants Association, was on hand with his keg of enthusiasm, and he untapped it with characteristic vigor. He asserted that the horse show was one of the best things ever tried in Rushville as an advertiser. He declared that it had been in the hands of men of unquestionable integrity, and that it should be continued.

Mayor Black was called upon to express his opinion of the horse show. He said that he would be glad to co-operate for the success of the show, would donate his part and would be willing to assist anyway he could.

Will A. Jones expressed the belief that the show should be given in an enclosure where admission fee could be charged. He said that other horse shows in other cities had been made to pay for themselves, and there was no reason why the Rushville show shouldn't. He said that he did not like to show his horses on the brick streets, but that he would give is part and enter his horses just the same. He said a better show could be had if the event were held some place where there is a track.

Will Bliss said that the talk would not make the horse show and that the most necessary thing was to appoint committees to go out and get the money. He declared that if the money could not be raised there were but two alternatives: give the show where admission could be charged or not give the show.

At the opening of the meeting J. C. Ryburn, secretary of the horse show who was in charge last year and was re-elected for this year, gave a financial report.

The report showed that there is now a balance on hands of $314.16 left over from last year. Last year, Mr. Ryburn said, a sum of $1143 was collected on popular subscriptions. There was one $25 subscription, a few $20 subscriptions, a great many at $10, still more at $5, and a few ranging from $2.50 on down to 50 cents.

There was collected for entrance fees $208.80. That added to $438.16 accumulated from the four previous horse shows and the popular subscription made a total of $1789.96, which represented the total amount of funds handled last year. There is, it will be noted, a discrepancy of $3 which was accounted for by the secretary by the fact that one subscription of that size was not paid.

The secretary read an itemized list of the expenses last year totaling $1442.80. This subtracted from the total leaves $314.16 which is now on hands.

In order to make the horse show anyways near as good as last year it will be necessary to raise at least five hundred dollars more than the $775 already subscribed. It is imperative that the show be financed at once as the premium lists would have been printed and distributed a week ago. The show officials are anxious to get them over the country at the horse shows and the closing race meets so that horsemen will prepare to come here and not make other arrangements.

1913 CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD HERE

Ministers, Meeting in Jeffersonville,
Today Accept Invitation to Come to Rushville

THE VOTE IS UNANIMOUS

The 1913 session of the Indiana M. E. conference, now meeting in Jeffersonville, will be held in Rushville.

The conference this morning unanimously accepted the invitation of the Rev. W. H. Wylie, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church, to meet here next year. The session will be held in September. It will be recalled that the Rev. Mr. Wylie and the Rev. V. W. Tevis of this city, district superintendent, announced before leaving for the conference they would invite it here next year, and that they had every assurance that their invitation would be accepted.

The conference will bring from three to four hundred ministers in the Methodist church to Rushville. They will be entertained in private homes.

The bishop and eight district superintendents in the Indiana conference were busy this afternoon making up the list of assignments and the ministers got a half holiday. It is expected the Rev. W. H. Wylie will be sent back to the Rushville church.

GRAND JURY WAS PREPARING TO QUIT

Was Expected to Make Returns Late
This Afternoon and be Dismissed by Court.

VISITED COUNTY POOR FARM

Late this afternoon the grand jury was preparing to make its returns and be dismissed by Judge Blair. The final act of the body, the inspection of the county poor asylum, was done this afternoon. The grand jury returned about three o'clock and retired to the third floor to prepare to make its returns.

A number of cases have been under investigation, and several indictments will be returned. Since the last grand jury, two cases have been sent to the grand jury from mayor's court, and in each an indictment was expected.

The grand jury has inspected the county jail, and it is said, also has taken a look around the court house, with a view to making recommendations.

ADVISES CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT

Stockholder of Rush County Fair Association Sounds Note of Warning in Open Letter.

DEBT INCREASES EACH YEAR

Suggests Stockholders' and Family
Tickets be Tabooed—Grounds
May Have to be Sold.

If the advice of a stockholder is taken the method of managing the Rush County Fair Association which gives the annual fair will be revolutionized. In a communication sent to the Daily Republican today, he argues that some drastic change should be made else the grounds will be sold to pay the debts of the association.

He suggests that both family and stockholders tickets be done away with and that everybody pay to get into the grounds. He points out that not another institution in America admits a family of ten or fifteen as cheaply as it does a man and his wife. His communication follows:

The Rush county fair has come and gone, leaving a considerable debt to add to the already innumerable of twenty-three hundred dollars. The question is how are they ever to get out of debt, when this year everything was favorable? Even going so far this year to get money, as to rent privileges, for shows for men only, public dance halls and games of chance—all of which is not creditable to Rush county?

There are four hundred stockholders, and last year at the annual election there were fewer than fifty present, showing a lack of interest taken in the election.

Here are a few suggestions to save the grounds from being sold for debt: First do away with all family tickets, even the stockholders' tickets. I doubt if there is another institution in America that admits a family of ten to fifteen for the same price as a man and his wife; then the directors should not be scattered as they are now—several of them are on the borders of other counties and they never see each other until they are called together in March to make a premium list—it generally results in taking an old list and adopting it with a very few changes.

Where is a successful business man that would scatter his partners so he could not see them but once or twice a year? Men should be elected that would give it their attention, otherwise our beautiful grounds will have to be sold for debt. The grounds should be made to pay a dividend and would if the above suggestions were carried out.

Respectfully,
STOCKHOLDER.

Plum Creek.

Miss Allie Alexander, music teacher of this vicinity, will give a recital on Saturday evening, September 21st at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Zorn near Ging.

These mornings makes a person feel that the pumpkins should be gathered in as Jack Frost seems to be on the way.

Mrs. John Nipp and J. P. Scott attended the funeral of Mrs. James Nipp at Newcastle Monday.

James Durham and family will move to Kokomo in the near future. He expects to run a store there, and also his wagon. His son will assist him.

The Aid Society meets this week with Mrs. Will McMillin for the purpose of quilting.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hays had as their guest Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Meyer and Will Whitton and family.

Charles Rich and family moved Monday to the Geo. Hall farm which they purchased some time ago and, Roll Davis of the Plum Creek neighborhood moved to where he formerly lived.

Alph Chapman has returned after making a two weeks' stay below Brookville at Camp Arthur. He reports a good time and seems to think that this is one of the important places for an outing.

Sumner.

Miss Gladys Gardner of Arlington, is teacher at No. 9 school house, this year.

Miss Pearl Young is teaching school at Arlington.

Scott Brown and family have moved into the house by E. C. Macy's. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Zike have moved into J. W. Zike's farm.

Mrs. Alice Hinton is visiting her son-in-law, Bert Robinson and family, near Indianapolis. They are the proud parents of a boy.

John Wall and family have returned from their visit in Sullivan county.

D. M. Pressnall and family have returned from Cleveland Campmeeting.

Mrs. Adelaide Ingold visited Mrs. Luzena Shields and others in Columbus and near there a few days and returned Monday, to Mrs. Clara Riggsbee's.

Miss Evie McMichael has returned home from Indianapolis where she underwent a surgical operation in the M. E. hospital.

POULTRY NOTES

Keep your chicks on dry ground. Oats make an excellent ration for laying hens.

Nothing fattens young turkeys like plenty of corn.

Don't overcrowd the brooders, brood coops or colony coops.

The young turkeys will not begin to fatten until cold weather sets in.

Never let the hen and her young roost away from home a single night.

It is best to kill fowls ten hours before preparing them for the table.

Poor quality poultry and eggs are hard to sell or get rid of at any price.

Clip the main feathers on one wing of the fence flyer. That will keep her in.

Plow or spade up chicken runs, if not well grassed, and sow oats or rye.

Move chick colonies to new ground before the grass in the old run is quite gone.

Don't fail to supply abundant shade and shelter for adult fowls and growing chicks.

The smoother the roosting poles the more easily they can be kept free from vermin.

The stock will benefit from your intelligent use of a good lice and mite killing preparation during the heated term.

Do not let your young birds roost with the old hens, as they are liable to catch diseases which old hens are more subject to.

All hens which have completed their second laying season should be disposed of at once, to make room for the young stock.

The Family Trouble.

"Why doesn't that house of yours rent?"

"For the same reason I myself don't do a lot of things."

"What reason is that?"

"My wife won't let me."

ANOTHER PHASE TO MAINE RESULT

One of Border States Which Was Alleged to be Resentful Because of Reciprocity.

RETURNS FAIL TO SHOW IT

Evidently Prefer Republican Regime to Wilson And His Extreme Tariff Views.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

New York, September 20.—Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, issued a further statement concerning the Maine election returns. He said:

"I have been in communication with various Republican leaders in Maine today and learn that the Republican and Taft victory in that state was absolute and complete. Not only did we elect a governor, but we elected every candidate for Congress with the exception of one, and assured an increase in the Republican representation in the Senate through the election of a Republican Legislature. In short, we have made a net gain of two in a total Congressional delegation of six in the State of Maine, which, in points of percentage, is notable and significant.

"There is one phase of the Maine results which is especially pleasing to the Republican managers, and that is that we have sustained a notable victory, not only in a state supposedly Democratic, but also in one of the border states which the Democrats have represented as being unalterably resentful of the attitude of the Republican party on reciprocity. As a matter of fact I have been told over the telephone wire today that one great factor in our Maine victory was the fact that the Canadian newspapers have been urging the election of Governor Wilson on the ground that his tariff views assured Canada even greater tariff concessions than the proposed reciprocity act, and exacting nothing in return. This, I think, is true, and doubtless will have an equally important effect in other border states.

"I cannot be too emphatic in my assertion that the Maine returns clearly sustain my claim that there could be no possible future for the Third Term movement except as an ally to Democratic success, and I believe its power to exercise this function has been materially lessened, if not entirely dissipated, as a result of Maine and its verdict."

WILL WIN IN NOVEMBER

Maine Campaigner Says Taft Will Carry it Again

New York, September 20.—Ralph D. Cole, of Ohio, a former member of Congress, and an ardent Taft worker, returned to New York today from Maine, where he had an active part in the notable Republican victory in that State yesterday.

"I felt confident that the Republicans would win out in Maine yesterday," said Mr. Cole, "and I feel confident that the Republican national ticket, with President Taft as its drawing card, will poll a larger vote in Maine in November."

ASSURED.

New York, Sept. 20.—Job Hedges, of New York, was a caller at the Republican national headquarters in the Times Building. Mr. Hedges had just returned from a tour of New York State, and called upon Chairman Hilles to express his confidence in Republican success in the Empire State in November.

McPHERSON SURE OF VICTORY.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 20.—Isaac V. McPherson, nominee of the Republicans in the 15th Congressional district, is making some odd bets on his election which will benefit various charities. The nomination of H. H. Gregg has shattered Democratic strength and assured a big Republican victory.

SAYS IT IS TAFT SURE

Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania is Optimistic Over Prospects.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 19.—Governor Tener, of this state, has issued a statement that has added much enthusiasm to the Republicans of Pennsylvania. He says:

"The solid conservative element among the voters is not saying anything. While the present outlook appears to favor a great many votes for Wilson east principally to defeat Roosevelt, I am sure that when the time comes the ballots will be cast for President Taft. Voters on second sober thought will not go back on the protective policies which have made this State so influential. It remains to be seen, however, whether they will vote for substantial achievement or mere promises."

THIS IS UNKINDEST CUT OF THEM ALL

Statement of Gov Wilson That He Has Revolutionized New Jersey is Refuted.

CLAIMS ARE ALL UNFOUNDED

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

Trenton, N. J., September 20.—Right in the heart of the Wilson camp the Republican State Committee of New Jersey has thrown a bomb of incalculable proportions. It is a neat little statement, refuting the claims made on behalf of the Democratic Presidential candidate that he has "revolutionized, redeemed and righted" the government of the State of New Jersey. Says the Republican Committee:

"The most astounding and ill-founded claims regarding the wonders of legislation accomplished by Governor Wilson were spread broadcast by his publicity bureau to gain for him the nomination for President. These claims can in most instances be refuted by the legislative records, which will show that the great bulk of the remedial and progressive legislation for the benefit of the people and especially for the benefit of the working class has had its inception if not its actual enactment in Republican legislatures. The governor's neglect of the current business of the State should be exposed, together with his use of patronage build up a personal political machine, his shielding of a Democratic State Senator whom a majority of the Senate found guilty of betrayal of the Senatorial trust, and his calculated use of the Governorship to advance his political fortunes in disregard of the contract made with the people of New Jersey to serve them faithfully as their executive for the term of three years. There is no lack of ammunition to conduct a winning fight against the Democratic machine in this State."

PANIC WILL FOLLOW WILSON

Will Begin 24 Hours After His Election—Humphrey.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 19.—Congressman W. E. Humphrey, who is one of the big Republicans following the trail of the Bull Moose went of the Mississippi, started his campaign today.

His principal address is directed against Governor Wilson. He declares should Wilson be elected a panic will begin in this country within twenty-four hours after that fact is known. On the other hand, says the conditions throughout the nation today are such that if Taft be elected there is every reason to believe that the country will enter up on a period of prosperity never before known. The business world is awaiting the verdict and this is the real issue of the campaign, Mr. Humphrey says.

The United States ranks first in production exports, and imports in sixteen out of thirty-four industries.

CONTINUE WORK OF THE OUTLOOK

Republican National Committee Shows Legislation of Last Congress Began With Republicans.

DEMOCRATIC BILLS PARTISAN

T. R. Handbill Classifies Work of House Under Head of Sins of Omission.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

New York, Sept. 20.—The humorists of the Republican national headquarters in this city have dubbed "The Outlook," made famous by the connection of Colonel Roosevelt with it, as contributory editor, "Roosevelt's Handbill." Recently this periodical took the trouble to classify the legislation of the last Congress. The bad laws of the Democratic House are classified as "sins of omission."

These sins of omission which it credits to Congress are its failures

To pass needed tariff legislation, to pass needed trust legislation, to pass needed monetary legislation, to pass needed naval legislation, to abolish the involuntary servitude of seamen, to pass a workmen's compensation bill, to extend agricultural education, to act on the president's civil service recommendations.

The Republican headquarters have taken up the matter where the "Outlook" left off and are sending out little booklets which show that practically all the good legislation of the second session of the sixty-second Congress was of Republican initiation, much of it originating with the administration.

Republicans say that there were no reasons, save narrow partisan ones, why the Democratic majority buried the epoch-making workmen's compensation act and the Republican trust bills, and refused to extend the civil service in compliance with the findings of the president's bureau of economy and efficiency.

MOOSE DECAY IN MICHIGAN SHOWN

Under Peculiar State Law They Make Pitiful Showing by Enrolling 2½ Per Cent. of Vote.

SIGNIFICANCE OF SHOWING

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—Charles B. Warren, Republican National Committeeman from this state, is giving out some facts that are proving uncomfortable reading for the Progressives in this state.

"Some points regarding the recent vote in Michigan have not yet been brought out, but they ought to be emphasized to illustrate how the Bull Moose movement in the state has failed to materialize," says Mr. Warren. "We have in Michigan a law which allowed anyone who had enrolled as a Republican or a Democrat to re-enroll as a Progressive. Yet, despite these wide-open doors and despite the desperate efforts to induce voters to re-enroll or to enroll in order to vote, the Roosevelt followers made a pitiful showing. They enrolled only 2½ per cent of the total vote of the state. We believe that the showing is significant. We believe that it indicates that when election day comes next November practically all of the Republicans will be found lined up with their party and with President Taft."

In Germany there is a total number of 11,900 women filling honorary positions in cities and on charity boards. In 155 municipalities 7,000 women are in active service for the care of the poor and of orphans. In 115 towns there are women serving on school boards.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR SEPT. 22.

FEEDING THE FIVE THOUSAND.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:30-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life."—John 6:35.

This parable marks the high level of the year of popularity in the life of our Lord. It is such an important miracle as to be the only one recorded by all four gospel writers.

The returning disciples (v. 30) are urged by the Master to come with him into a desert place that they might rest, and also that he might comfort their hearts over the death of John the Baptist. "They had no leisure," Jesus knew the need and also the proper use of leisure. But the multitude would not grant this and flocked to his retreat in the desert. They saw and followed that they might listen to his gracious words or behold some new wonder, but Jesus also saw and ministered, v. 24. Carlsle said he saw in England "forty millions, mostly fools." Not so with Jesus. He saw and was moved, not with sarcasm, but with compassion, which compassion took a tangible form of service. It is interesting to note in verse 34 that the compassion of Jesus led him first of all to teach. It is better to teach a man how to help himself than to help the man. We also infer from this verse that the soul of a man is of more value than his body. It is not enough, however, to say, "God bless you, be fed and warm," when a man is hungry. So it is that Jesus listened to his disciples when they saw the physical need of the multitude.

A Great Task.

St. John tells us in this connection of the conversation with Philip. Philip lived in Bethsaida near by, yet to feed this multitude was for him too great a task, even with his knowledge of the resources at hand, John 6:5-7. Yet we need not be surprised at Philip's slowness of faith. Moses in like manner was once nonplussed how to feed six thousand in the wilderness, see Num. 11:21-23. It is not so much as to how great the need nor how little we possess, but rather is the little given to God.

Another disciple, Andrew, who had discovered the Saviour unto Peter, discovers as though in desperation a boy whose mother had thoughtfully provided him with a lunch consisting of five barley biscuits and two small dried herring (John 6:9), at least that much remained. It is a great commentary upon the tide of interest at this time that this boy should not have eaten his lunch, for a boy's hunger is proverbial. It seems as though Jesus emphasizes the helplessness of the disciples in order that he may show his power. His command, "give ye them," (v. 37) teaches us that we are to give such as we have, not look to others, nor do our charity by proxy. Prov. 11:24, 25.

Again the Saviour asks his disciples to see (v. 38) as though he would teach them the boundless resources of his kingdom. Give what you have and he will bless and increase it to the supplying of the needs of the multitude. The secret of success was when he took the loaves and "looking up" for God also saw on that day, and blessed it.

We need to observe the systematic procedure. The people seated or reclining upon the ground in ranks or by companies. The Master blessing and breaking the boy's cakes and giving first to the disciples, for God only works such miracles through human agencies, and then giving to the people. The result of this systematic procedure was that "all did eat," and further, they were satisfied, v. 42. Not alone, however, was there Divine order and lavishness, but there was economy and thrift as well, for Jesus gave careful directions as to the fragments. The lavishness is shown by the fact that the baskets into which the fragments were gathered were each large enough in which to sleep.

Living Bread.

The conversation process was a stinging rebuke to the improvident orientals, and to the present day prodigals of that wonderful bounty with which God has blessed our land.

God gives to us that we may use. Joy dies unless it is shared. Jesus, the living bread (John 6:48) will satisfy hunger, and life, as bread, generates in the human body heat, energy, vitality, power, etc., so he would feed the hungry souls of mankind. We have at hand the Word; it is for lack of it that men die in the deepest sense of that word.

The poverty and perplexity of the disciples in his presence and the presence of this great need is being repeated over and over today and yet it is absurd. We have not enough to feed the multitude. Our few loaves of amusements, mental activities, etc., will not feed them, but when we break unto them the Living Bread they have enough and to spare. The words of the late Maltbie Babcock are appropriate in this connection:

Back of the loaf is the snowy flour,
And back of the flour the mill,
And back of the mill is the wheat and the shower
And the sun, and the Father's will.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS.

Sept. 22, 1912.

[Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.]

The Feeding of the Five Thousand, Mark vi:30-44.

Golden Text—Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John vi:35.

(1.) Verse 30—What is the advantage of telling God in detail about ourselves and our affairs?

(2.) What would you say the twelve told Jesus concerning "what they had done and what they had taught?"

(3.) Verse 31—What is the relative importance of necessary work and necessary rest?

(4.) What evidence is there that, notwithstanding his busy life, Jesus taught by precept and example the need of taking proper rest?

(5.) Verse 32—Is it either wise or necessary for a faithful minister of the gospel to tell the people when he takes a rest?

(6.) Verse 33—If Jesus intended to go away "privately" how do you account for it that his plans were upset?

(7.) Jesus intended to take a rest with his disciples, but instead was plunged into more intense work. Now, which would you say was God's preference, that Jesus' intention should be carried out or that which actually happened?

(8.) To a man of God which is divine guidance, what he expects to do or what he actually does?

(9.) Verse 34—If preachers and other Christian teachers succeed in making Christ actually known to the masses will the people flock to Christ, as in those days? Why?

(10.) What was the condition of the people which so moved the heart of Jesus, and what conditions today are there which when known stir similar compassion in all Christian hearts?

(11.) Which are the people in more need of today, preaching or teaching?

(12.) Verses 35-36—Were the disciples right or wrong, and why, in calling the attention of Jesus to the needs of the multitude?

(13.) If our heavenly Father knows our temporal needs what is the benefit of calling his attention to them?

(14.) Verse 37—Does God ever command his children to do that which he knows they cannot? Give your reasons.

(15.) Whom does God command to feed the millions of the earth who are spiritually hungry, and when and how does he expect it to be done?

(16.) When God commands us to do that which looks to us to be impossible is it wisdom or folly for us to attempt it, and why?

(17.) Verses 38-40—What is the proof that we have all the necessary qualities and opportunities to accomplish the work in life to which we are appointed by God? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(18.) When a man is not systematic and works without method is that any evidence that he is not true to the laws of God? Why?

(19.) Verses 41-44—Why should everybody ask a blessing before eating?

(20.) By what means did five small loaves and two fishes feed 5,000 men? Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 23, 1912. Review.

TOPIC FOR SEPTEMBER 22.

Believe! Believe Much! Believe Strongly! John 11:17-27, 41-46.

True belief is founded upon knowledge. It has no room for speculations. It knows that things are so because it has made a satisfactory investigation.

We need more Christians with this kind of a belief. Too many of us have been building our faith on a very small foundation of knowledge. The first blast of criticism or inquiry is sufficient to overthrow it.

We ought to know more about the Bible. We ought to be in a position to intelligently appreciate the message that God has for us. If we really understood God's promises some of us would have less difficulty in bolstering up our faith.

This foundation of definite knowledge of God's word would tend toward a unity in beliefs. There are nearly two hundred different Protestant denominations. Surely there would not be quite so many if all Christians had really read the word of God from cover to cover.

Belief does not necessarily involve comprehension. We do not need to understand all that we believe. We should be willing to leave to God the things we cannot comprehend. "He that will believe only what he can fully comprehend must have a very long head or a very short creed."

WILL BE EQUIPPED BY NEXT JULY, FIRST

State Railroad Commission Believes

All Interurbans Will be Prepared to Minimize Accidents.

I. & C. HAS 1 OF TEST SYSTEMS

As a result of the conference held in Indianapolis with the heads of the interurban lines of the State, the railroad commission predicts that by the first of next July every electric road in Indiana will be fully equipped with block signal service.

"This," said John F. McClure, member of the commission, "is going to minimize railroad accidents wonderfully."

The Indianapolis & Cincinnati line has established block signals between Indianapolis and Shelbyville and by the first of the year expects to have its entire system completed. The management of the different lines have been given thirty days in which to observe the systems already installed and to file notice with the commission of what they propose to do.

At the time the commission began to investigate the question of block signals for interurban lines, there were no systems in use that could be practically applied to electric lines. The question has been solved however, and the signals now being employed by the three roads have been approved by the commission.

WILL NOT INTERFERE.

Because Samuel L. Trabue has been appointed adjutant general of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, it does not follow that he will have to leave Rushville to attend to his new duties. He says that the appointment will not interfere in the least with any of his work in Rushville.

EXPECT MAJORITY IN NEXT CONGRESS

Republicans, Figuring On Maine Results, Believe They Will Control Next Session.

GAIN A CONGRESSMAN THERE

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

New York, Sept. 19th.—Having finished a careful analysis of the official returns from Maine in regard to their bearing on the Congress situation, Francis Curtis, of the Republican Congressional Committee, declares that there is an excellent chance for the return of a Republican majority in the House of Representatives in November.

"It view of the increased vote by which Congressmen Hinds and Guernsey, the two Republican members from Maine now in the House, were re-elected," says Mr. Curtis, "and the more significant fact that a third Republican member was elected, thereby reducing the Democratic representation in the Maine delegation to one, I think there is an excellent chance for a return of a Republican majority to the House of Representatives this year. I have very encouraging reports from scores of districts now represented by Democratic members, and in my opinion the people will register their disapproval of the extravagant and inefficient work of the present Democratic House at the polls next November."

WOMEN TO BE REPUBLICANS.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 20.—The Republicans of this state are not very much agitated over the fact that the women of Idaho are planning a full state ticket of their own. The majority of the women are Republicans so that the success of the party is assured anyway. Of the 75,000 voters in the state 30,000 are women.

FLOCKING TO COLUMBUS.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—The hotels of the city are filled to capacity and new guests are arriving on every train for the opening of the Republican convention tomorrow in this city. Columbus is taking on the appearance of a convention city. Hundreds of women interested in the election of Taft are among the new arrivals.

TAFT DOESN'T FEAR WILSON.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Governor Wilson has arrived here today to open the state campaign for the Democrats tonight at a mass meeting in Memorial Hall. The Republicans are not attaching great importance to the event for they do not fear the Democratic nominee and furthermore anything that he might say will be lost in the big Republican rally here tomorrow, when Senator Lodge will deliver the keynote speech of Mr. Taft's campaign.

T R's COUNTY IN DOUBT.

New York, Sept. 20.—Supporters of Colonel Roosevelt in his home county are said to be getting discouraged over the way the political wind is blowing. On a test vote at a meeting just held in Mineola, Colonel Roosevelt's home county, President Taft has an overwhelming majority in the governing body of the party. The vote stood 32 to 4 in favor of President Taft.

Joe Robinson's meat market will be open for business next Tuesday, September 24, with a full line of Meats, Fish and Game in season. Expert meat cutter to wait on the trade. Give us a trial and be convinced. We will deliver to any part of the city. Phone 3267. Call us up. 16443

THE YEARLY MIRACLE QUIETS NEAPOLITANS

Blood of St. Januarius Boils On Schedule.

Naples, Sept. 20.—After two hours of incessant prayers in the overcrowded cathedral where the excitement was at the highest pitch, the yearly miracle of the spontaneous boiling of the blood of St. Januarius was accomplished. The impatience of the congregation was such that the police had the utmost difficulty in keeping order. In order to prevent a rush to the high altar where the relic of the saint was exposed, Cardinal Prisco, who was present ordered a salute of 100 guns prematurely fired at 10:30 in order to allay the growing excitement of the populace outside who then believed that the liquefaction was taking place. Meanwhile the prayers were repeated with greater fervor inside the cathedral and this was kept up until noon when the blood really boiled. The salute of 100 guns was then fired again, a Te Deum was sung and the bells pealed, while the Neapolitans applauded, shouted and wept for joy, convinced that there would be immunity for eruptions of Vesuvius for another year.

St. Januarius is the patron saint of Naples. The Neapolitans say the blood of this martyr is contained in two vessels in the cathedral and when it is exposed and liquefies as it generally does in May and September, they are satisfied that they are safe from volcanic and other disasters.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Ople Grace, who was acquitted at Atlanta of shooting her husband, Eugene H. Grace, has started a suit for divorce.

"Flying today is safer than traveling at the same speed in automobiles, and is certainly much safer than auto racing," says Orville Wright.

There have been many suicides in Japan since General Nogi and his wife killed themselves. The police have prevented many other attempts.

Hearing of the suit to dissolve the International Harvester company has been interrupted by the illness of Attorney Edgar A. Bancroft, who has been conducting the defense.

There is a general conviction in Europe that war between Turkey and Serbia is imminent. Trade at Belgrade is almost at a standstill and nothing is talked of but war.

Because he pardoned a negro who was twice convicted and was sentenced to be hanged for attacking a trained nurse, Governor Donaghy of Arkansas was hanged in effigy at Little Rock.

Fred W. Carpenter, formerly secretary to President Taft and now minister to Morocco, has been appointed to be minister to Siam, succeeding Hamilton King, who died suddenly at his post a few weeks ago.

Miss Katherine Drexel is establishing a chain of Catholic schools for colored children. She is the founder of the sisterhood of the Blessed Sacrament, and the funds for the schools are derived from her private fortune.

Miss Margaret Kresge, aged nineteen years, daughter of a wealthy farmer near White Haven, Pa., was murdered by a butcher named John Savage, a disappointed suitor, who also tried to kill the girl's brother, and later killed himself.

Hugh S. Gibson, charge d'affaires at Havana, who recently figured largely in the relations between this government and Cuba, owing to the personal assault upon him by a Havana reporter, has been appointed to be secretary of legation at Brussels.

Legal, medical, moral and general warfare against the social evil as the salvation of the human race, was the keynote of the lecture course at the exhibit of the American Federation of Sex Hygiene in connection with the international congress on hygiene and demography, at Washington.

HE QUOTES LAW ON CIGARETTES

Dr. Hurty's Strong Plea In Behalf of Boys.

LETTER TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Head of the State Board of Health Points Out That It Not Only Is Against the Law for a Boy to Smoke Cigarettes, but That the Habit Is One That Lowers His Efficiency in the Duties of Life.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—Because of appeals from school officials throughout the state, the board of health has written many letters advising school officials of the evil of cigarette smoking among boys. The letters quote the law on cigarette smoking. A sample follows:

Cigarette smoking is certainly an evil and the state board of health desires to abate it all it possibly can. We ask you therefore to co-operate with us in this work. It is certainly true that cigarette smokers have a lower efficiency than those who do not smoke them. If you will notice carefully you will observe that those boys who smoke cigarettes are not as bright, do not progress as rapidly as those of the same mental grade who do not use this drug. Tobacco is of course a drug. If it did not contain a drug (nicotine) it would not be in demand. It is the soothing effect of this drug that those who are addicted to smoking so much desire. Like the morphine habit, when it is once fastened upon a person it is difficult indeed to throw off. Not only does economy, efficiency and health oppose cigarette smoking and tobacco using, but the law itself commands against the use of cigarettes.

Section 1641, First Revised Statutes, provides "that any boy under sixteen years of age who smokes cigarettes is a delinquent child, and can be proceeded against as in manner provided by law for the prosecution of persons charged with misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof may be released upon probation or may be dealt with by the court in such manner as may appear to be for the best interest of the child." In the juvenile court act such prosecutions may be begun before any justice of the peace and by him certified to the circuit court of the county. It should be impressed upon the boys that it is not manly, that it is not hygienic to smoke cigarettes. They should be made to understand that it lowers their efficiency, clouds their intellect, makes them more liable to disease, and is contrary to law for a boy under sixteen years of age to use tobacco and smoke cigarettes.

TO TEACH STOCK FEEDING

Purdue to Run Special Train in Co-Operation With Railroad.

Lafayette Ind., Sept. 20.—The first week in October will mark the beginning of a new movement for better livestock in Indiana. Arrangements have been completed with the Pennsylvania railroad to operate a livestock improvement special train on the two divisions—Logansport to Richmond and Richmond to Union City, Sept. 30 to Oct. 5.

The Pennsylvania has operated special corn and wheat trains in co-operation with the Purdue university experiment station. The results from these trains have been very marked and have meant much to both the railroad and the farmers. The railroad will carry representatives of Purdue university to lecture on livestock.

The animal husbandry department of the Purdue experiment station has, perhaps, carried on more extensive investigations on beef cattle feeding than any other department in the country. The results of this work will be presented from the train. Specimen feeding steers will be carried on this train and exhibited at each stop. With the high price of feeding cattle and the high price of feed, it is important that everyone engaged in this business use the most up-to-date methods in his feeding operations. A full discussion of cattle and hog feeding in all of its phases will be given in the lectures. A short discussion will also be given on the selection of the type of feeders.

Shot by His Friend.

Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 20.—Carl Nicholson, thirty-three years of age, is in jail charged with the murder of his friend and fellow workman at a piano factory, Edward Hines, aged thirty-four. The tragedy occurred in a saloon and so far as known was not preceded by a quarrel. In a dying statement Hines declared that Nicholson pulled his gun and without a word began firing. Three shots were fired, two of which took effect. Nicholson says the shooting was accidental.

Miss Brooks Not Worried.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 20.—Another letter, in which her life was threatened, has been received by Miss Virginia Brooks, the West Hammond reformer. She was told that unless she discontinued her fight on vice she might be injured. "You may get a bomb, dynamite or nitroglycerin," the letter said. Mayor Woszenski, of West Hammond, received a similar letter. Miss Brooks said she was not worried over the latest threat.

Visionary Tariff Wall.

In both Democratic and Bull Moose campaign arguments one finds frequent reference to the evil condition into which the country has fallen because of existing tariff laws. It is pointed out with all the seriousness that ordinarily goes with the statement of a fact that the tariff wall we have erected about the country prohibits the purchase of the products of foreign countries that our people need, and that, because of this, the balance of trade wobbles to our material disadvantages.

Strangely those who utter these statements seem never to have sought accurate information. The truth is that our purchases abroad are increasing with remarkable rapidity under existing tariff laws. At no period in the history of the nation have we bought proportionately so much abroad, and at the same time we are selling more abroad.

In July of this year we imported from Canada, even without reciprocity, eleven and a third million dollars worth of goods, as against eight and a quarter millions in July, 1911. Our imports from Europe in July, 1912, were $71,562,669, as against $58,742,331 in July, 1911. Total July imports were $148,547,946, as against $118,054,204 in July, 1911. On the other hand, our exports grew from $127,696,954 in July, 1911, to $148,994,023 in July, 1912. We shipped ten million dollars worth more goods to Canada in July of this year than in July last year. To every principal country our exports show an increase save to the countries of Oceania and Africa.

The increase of both our exports and import trade has been steady throughout the year. Total exports for the seven months ending July 31, 1912, were $1,248,610,226, against $1,115,517,494 for the corresponding seven months of last year. Our imports for the seven months of 1912 were $1,033,199,690, against $881,800,156 for the corresponding months of last year.

Not one of these facts, which are taken from the records of the Department of Commerce and Labor, coincide with the statements made by Democratic and Bull Moose campaigners.

Trade increase is an index of prosperity. When that increase is found in foreign as well as domestic trade it testifies a healthy condition. Still we are told that our tariff laws are stifling trade and doing us harm. Oddly no one has produced the corroborating facts to support such an assertion.

Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, announced that a complete record of all contributions of the presidential campaign of the Republican party will be published for the inspection and consideration of the voters of the country shortly after October 15.

It is the opinion of Chairman Hilles that the Congressional Campaign Fund Publicity Act, signed by President Taft on August 19, 1911, contains specific provision that all national committees, whether organized merely for the furtherance of congressional campaign or for the election of a national ticket must make public their campaign contributions not more than fifteen days and not less than ten days prior to the elections. Mr. Hilles, therefore, says that the Republican National Committee, in making this announcement, does not do so in the hope of being declared virtuous, and takes a fling at the Democratic National Committee for striking such a pose upon making a similar announcement.

Suggestions For Perkins.

Between prosecutions by the legislature of the State of New York, probably dissolution proceedings by Mr. Taft's attorney general and further prosecutions for violation of the labor law, George W. Perkins, Bull Moose backer and social reformer may be compelled to eventually seek other fields for his Harvester Trust factory. "Since Mr. Perkins is an ardent believer in the minimum wage (at Auburn he pays his people from $8 to $9 per week) and in short hours (in Auburn he makes employees slave from ten to eleven hours per day and up to ten hours per night,) and since he is particularly interested in woman's work (in Auburn he employs exclusively women and girls because they work cheaper) we beg to suggest to him the names of some foreign localities where the poor people do not object "to live and labor under conditions that are injurious to the common welfare," and where rich men may "throw back upon the community the human wreckage" of their own making with impunity.

That all there was to Roy Murphy's gasoline was smoke.

The following suggestions are quoted from the latest batch of European papers come to hand:

According to investigations by the Heidelberg Court of Commerce the average wage of needlewomen in that celebrated and beautiful city is from 25 to 40 marks per month ($6.25 to $10); we repeat, per month.

And the working hours are never less than twelve. If extended to fourteen or fifteen hours there is no extra compensation.

We should say that Heidelberg would exactly suit George W. Perkins to plant a factory in, especially as the "reform element" is not altogether lacking there.

"Every week," says the Commercial Court report, "the working women are treated to free lectures on ethics and hygienics."

Hygienics at $1.56 1/4 per week! Another minimum wage chance for Mr. Perkins:

The Royal Railway Commissioner in Altona advertised for railway guards and track walkers at the rate of one mark and twenty per day (30 cents), and got plenty of applicants, though the advertisement drew attention to the fact that there were no free lodgings.

And still another: A landed proprietor in Regentbin, Brandenburg pays his inspectors and overseers twenty marks ($5) per month in addition to board and lodging found.

If an inspector works for $5 a month George W. Perkins should be able to find in the same neighborhood plenty of women and girls eager to work for $1 or $1.25 per month.

An Insult to Nation.

It is an old saying that when the more disreputable sort of a lawyer sees defeat inevitable he abuses the opposing attorney. The third term candidate and his associate in the campaign to elect Woodrow Wilson and defeat President Taft begin to see that their program of party betrayal is bound to have no other result than their own discomfiture and, partly in a frenzy of disappointment, partly to divert popular attention from the real issues of the contest, they are sounding the lowest depths of blackguardism.

Hiram Johnson, the vermiform appendix of the third term, is reported to have used the following language before the Third term State convention in Ohio:

"It is with shame, as American citizens that I say that today the most humiliating character in all American history is the President of the United States."

The average American has supposed that the distinction stated by the blackguard comrade of Roosevelt belonged to one of several who might be named, including Benedict Arnold, John Wilkes Booth, Guiteau and Czolgosz. These evidently are preferential—especially Czolgosz—in the esteem of Roosevelt's associate, and presumably also of Roosevelt himself—to President Taft.

Reckless, desperate, insanely vituperative as the third term team may be in their attacks on the honored occupant of the presidential chair, they ought to have sanity enough to remember that language such as the foregoing as an affront as much to the American people as to President Taft. As head of the nation criticism of his administration is in order, but attacks should stop short of infamous insult to the nation in the person of its chief magistrate. The citizens of Ohio who heard Johnson's disgusting tirade were as much the object of it as their and our President.

The campaign of anarchy has evidently degenerated into a campaign of indecency unprecedented in the political history of the United States, and which cannot fail to impress upon law-abiding citizens their imperative duty to support law and order, sanity and safety by re-electing President Taft.

The Derby Hat.

There are few men who deposit the straw hat in the attic and brush the dust off the derby with any satisfaction.

Although the derby has been prescribed by the autocracies of style for the last 30 years, it has never gained an ascendancy in communities where conventional forms do not prevail.

It lives its artificial life in cities and towns, where man is protected from the elements of big buildings, trains and street cars. Man never appears so helplessly unable to cope with his surroundings as on a windy day in the city, where his derby hat threatens every moment to blow into the gutter. His hands are busy with his bundles or his umbrella. His wooden like block of a hat will not protect itself by adjusting itself firmly to his head. The victim of style can keep covered only by pointing his head at the veering blast, that old Boreas may not get any leverage under the flat and protruding brim.

Out under the wide sky, where men must battle with the storms, few men wear derby hats, except tramps who accept the gift of one used by the householder when he dumps his ashes.

Even in cities the number of informal and unconventional people is growing, as seen by the large number of soft hats worn by stylish men. The worst objection to the soft hat for town life, is that you must lift it by the crown when you wish to recognize your women friends, which soon warps it awry. The problem of winter head covering for men is far from settled.

Patriotic Japs kill themselves when the emperor dies. Patriotic Americans, when a president dies, hustle around to make themselves solid for an appointment under the new administration.

All the candidates have pledged to reduce the cost of living, but one or two of them have not assured the country that there will be plenty of rain.

BULL MOOSE BLUNDERS.

(Muncie Press.)

Bull Moose Kurtz, a traveling man for Spencer & Hogan of Marion, put one over on himself at Dunkirk last week, and at the same time furnished an interesting commentary on the methods being used by bull moose politicians to spread the idea that the Republican party is down and out. Kurtz is one of a number of Indiana traveling men who are busily engaged in loudly spreading word that bull moose enthusiasm, like the milk sick, has taken everything over in the next township.

Entering the Fitzpatrick store at Dunkirk Thursday morning, Bull Moose Kurtz began recounting a tale of the awful frost suffered by the Republicans on Wednesday. "Why when Durbin opened the campaign there yesterday," declared Bull Moose Kurtz, "he had less than two hundred people in his audience."

"Sure of that?" queried Fitzpatrick.

"Why of course I'm sure," replied the bull moose. "Don't I live in Marion?"

"Yes," replied Fitzpatrick, "you live in Marion all right, but you've got your dates mixed. Durbin doesn't speak in Marion until this afternoon."

The underbrush cracked as the bull moose took to the tall timbers.

"No. He answers questions. But he never says anything for himself. And, Philip, he looks so pinched and old and pale! And his hands are so cold. The nurse has taken away his pillows and raised his feet, and—it's gruesome, that's the only word that describes it."

"But he'll soon be better? The doctor said that, didn't he?"
"Yes. He said that."

But the reaction which usually follows shock was only partial in Cameron's case, and for days his life was in danger. Then followed a period of slow, general recovery.

As the month of October progressed I feared the liability to relapse. I knew, instinctively, with what dread sensations he must be awaiting the fourteenth of the month. He had been forbidden, of course, to receive any mail, just as he had been denied visitors; but I felt that in an uncertainty that must of necessity prove injurious. And so I took Dr. Massey, in a measure, into my confidence, and gained from him permission to see Cameron for a brief moment.

"He has been asking for you," the physician informed me, "but I fancied it better to make no exceptions. Now, however, I see that you may be a help instead of a hindrance."

Despite the more or less circumstantial reports as to his condition and appearance which had filtered to me from the sick room, through the medium of Evelyn, Miss Collins, the nurse, and Dr. Massey and his assistant, Dr. Thorne, I was not altogether prepared for the marked change which less than three weeks had wrought in my friend. He was peaked and bloodless and tired and old. And his voice was little more than a whisper.

He made a brave effort to smile, as I came in, but it resulted in a sad grimacing failure. I lifted one of his thin, clammy hands which lay inert on the coverlid, but it gave me only the feeblest answering pressure.

"I'm so glad you're better," I told him, cheerily. "Fancy the doctor allowing me to see you! That shows what he thinks."

"Yes," he whispered, "I'm coming round, slowly. And I wanted to see you, Clyde. What day of the month is this?"

"The twelfth."

"Day after tomorrow, it will come," he said.

"Don't be too sure," I replied. "I think they've done about enough to satisfy any ordinary villains."

He was silent for a moment. Then, with just the faintest turn of his head from side to side, he said:

"But they are not ordinary villains."

"Well," I said, "if it does come, I shall find out how it got here; and that will be a step towards bringing them to justice."

"You'll find out?" he queried, incredulously.

"Yes. I'll get your mail that day, myself. I'll tell that monument of pomposity, your butler, Mr. Checkabeedy, that I am to see every letter that comes to the house and know how and by whom it is delivered. Letters can't get here without hands, you know."

"Other things seem to be done without hands," was his conclusive comment; and I had no reply for him. Concerning Murphy and the murdered Chinaman, Cameron did not ask, and I was glad he did not. For

Murphy had been discharged from custody, for lack of evidence; and though there were some desultory efforts making to place the blame for the Celestial's violent taking-off, I doubted that they would have practicable result.

The precautions against surprise on the fourteenth, which I had outlined so briefly to Cameron, I carried out with added detail. For instance, I instructed Romney to report to me every person who passed in or out of the gates guarded by his Lodge. I had Kilgour, the superintendent of the Cameron acres, issue similar orders to his men concerning any strangers seen on the estate that day. And, finally, when not fetching the mail from the post office, myself—and four times I made the trip—I sat on guard in Cameron's study, waiting and expectant.

But the day passed, it seemed, without the looked-for incident. Every letter, by post or by hand, which came that day, inside the Cragholt limits was by me personally inspected, and amongst them all there was no one which bore the faintest resemblance to those two baleful missives of the two preceding fourteenths.

When I had made my last trip to the post office, finished my final inspection, and was almost jubilant over the significant cessation of the threats which, in their ultimate fulfillment at least, had brought my friend so close to dissolution, I made haste to carry to Cameron the glad news.

Oddly enough, his condition in the past forty-eight hours had materially improved, and as Dr. Massey attributed this, in part at least, to the influence exerted by my brief visit, I was now permitted to repeat the treatment at pleasure.

It wanted but a few minutes of eight o'clock, and Checkabeedy seized the occasion to inform me, as I passed through the hall, that dinner had been waiting for nearly a half-hour; a fact which I knew quite as well as he, but when I had chosen to disregard in favor of more pressing and important employment. Nevertheless I had dressed before going for the last mail, and as a moment would suffice to assure Cameron that all was well, I relieved the mind of the distressed butler, by assuring him that dinner should not wait over five minutes longer, so far as I was concerned.

A very light tap on the chamber door was answered by Miss Collins, who came out into the passage and closed the door behind her.

"I fear it is not advisable for you to see him, now, Mr. Clyde," she said. "He has suddenly had a return of some of his worst symptoms, and I am sure Dr. Massey would object to his being at all excited."

"But I shan't excite him," I explained. "I have the very best of news for him. It is his anxiety over a certain matter, no doubt, which has brought about the symptoms you speak of. I know I can relieve his mind, which I have reason to believe has been all day under an unusual strain."

But still this efficient-looking, white-clad woman was not wholly convinced.

"It must be only for a minute then," she finally allowed. "You can go in alone. But at the end of sixty seconds," she added, as she glanced at the little gold watch she wore pinned to her spotless waist, "I shall interrupt you; and then you must leave."

Yielding, perforce, to her condition, I entered. And as I did so, Cameron half rose on his elbow, regarding me with what I thought was anxiety for my report.

"It's all right," I said, quietly. "All right. Not so much as a line from the enemy. They have withdrawn, just as I—"

But he interrupted me.

"Here, quick!" he was saying. "Take this!" And I saw then that one hand was drawing something from beneath his pillow. The next moment he had given me a long envelope of that thin, waxy texture I had learned to loathe. For a heartbeat I stood appalled, transfixed.

"Quick!" he insisted, excitedly. "Open it! Read it! She'll not leave us long and I must know 'its contents.'"

"But how—" I began, as I tore the end of the envelope.
"God knows," he answered, before I had put my question into words. "I had been dozing; about an hour ago, I stretched out my hand, unconsciously, and that lay beneath it, on the counterpane. It cracked as I touched it; and I knew then, even before I recognized the feel of it."

Sixty seconds! Was there ever such an interminable period? Sixty long seconds before that door would open with the interruption that would spare me. I fumbled with the devilish paper; let it slip through my fingers; tore a bit here and a bit there; finished the tearing; and then, dissembling, began tearing the other end. And still the seconds lagged; still the door remained stationary.

"My God, Clyde!" Cameron cried, in a frenzy of impatience. "What's the matter with you tonight? Are you never going to get that thing open?"

And then I, desperate, too, with eyes fixed imploringly on the door, was about to answer him with the truth—that I did not want to open it; that I would not, could not read the contents; that he must wait and trust me, absolutely—when, quite without design on my part, the envelope fell to the rug at my feet. And as I stooped to recover it, I heard the door-knob turn.

When I regained the upright, Miss Collins was entering, and the letter was in the pocket of my dinner jacket.

"And so you see, Cameron," I said, speaking distinctly and with double purpose, the nurse being in ear-shot, "everything is quite right. The matter you spoke of shall be attended to, at once, and I'll report to you, tonight—before ten o'clock, surely."

The reproach in his eyes stung me, and the pain of it followed me from the room and stabbed me at intervals during dinner. And yet it was not the part of sanity to have acted otherwise than I did. The temptation had occurred to me to invent phrases and sentences expressive of satisfaction over the effort of the previous communications. But I doubted that, in my agitation, I should be successful in the deception. And so, my only course had been delay—stupid, bungling, palpable delay it was, I suppose, but after all it had served; and, though it left Cameron in doubt, it gave me time and opportunity to arrange some plan for extracting the fangs of this epistolary adder before it could strike its prey.

Purposely I delayed reading the letter, myself, until after I had dined. I chose uncertainty as to its contents as less likely noticeably to affect my demeanor than an exact knowledge of the minatory message which I felt sure it carried.

I think I fancied I should be able to conceal my real state of mind. Certainly I willed to do so. But I was very soon conscious that Evelyn had divined my dissimulation. Her eyes became suddenly grave and questioning, her laughter quieted, and her conversation, which had been glad and gay, relapsed abruptly into the serious. When the coffee and liqueurs had been brought on, Mrs. Lancaster asked to be excused, and left us alone together.

There followed then a moment of silence between us, while I selected a cigarette and lighted it. She had edged her chair a little closer to me—she was sitting on my right, as usual—and leaned forward, her slender but divinely rounded forearms extended across the shining damask of the tablecloth.

As I dropped my match upon the tiny silver tray which the inimitable Checkabeedy had placed conveniently at my elbow I turned to her and saw her question in her imploring gaze and attitude even before she voiced it.

"Tell me!" was what she said. And although I knew that she would demand it I was unprepared. To gain time rather than information I bade her be more explicit.

"Everything," she pursued, inclusively, with a peremptory emphasis which indicated her determination not to be denied.

My hesitation resulted in some amplification on her part. She was impatient as well as resolved, and resented what she interpreted as my reluctance to gratify her.

"Everything," she repeated. "Everything that you have been hiding from me from the first. I am entitled to know. What about the head that was cut from the portrait? What was it that caused the shocks which brought on Uncle Robert's illness? Why did you go for the mail four times today, and sit all the rest of the time in Uncle Robert's study? What has happened to make him worse this afternoon? What is troubling you, now? I'm not a child, I'm a woman, and I refuse to be kept in ignorance any longer."

She was glorious as she thus formulated her demands, her cheeks blazing, her eyes brilliant, her voice a crescendo. She must have seen my admiration. Certainly I made no attempt to hide it; and before she had quite finished I had possessed myself of her clasped hands, and was bestowing upon them an applauding pressure.

And her argument prevailed. She knew too much not to know more. Cameron's wishes in the matter could no longer be regarded. Just how tactfully I managed the disclosure, it is not for me to judge. Perhaps I told more than I should. Possibly I revealed too little. I was guided solely by the wish not to alarm her, unduly. And yet, as nearly every feature of the affair was of necessity alarming, it became a vexing problem as to what to include and what to omit.

Eventually she heard the whole story, every phase of it. And so it is not altogether clear in my memory how much I conveyed that night and how much was left for me to add ten days later.

There is no question, however, regarding that third letter which had been so mysteriously received that day. I drew it from the envelope, there, at the table, and we read it together, by the light of the pink-shaded candles; our chairs touching and her cool little left hand clasped hard in my sinewy right.

As I spread the sheet that sinister appearing black daub at the bottom smote me with a sense of ill as acutely poignant as a rapier thrust, and the heavy, regular, upright chirography, with its odd f's and p's, so awesomely familiar, was scarcely less disturbing.

Silently the girl and I ran through the dozen lines.

Like its two predecessors the letter began with the sentence:

"That which you have wrought shall in turn be wrought upon you."

No longer could this be regarded as idle boasting. It had become an edict of grave significance. And what followed only emphasized the proven force behind this series of singular communications.

"All having been performed as foretold, our power is demonstrated."

Then, simply, almost crudely, but of horrid poignancy, ran the words: "Know then, that before the morning of the Eighth Day hence, as passed the face from the portrait, as passed the reflection from the mirror, so you, physically, will pass from sight of men into torment."

As I read my breath caught in my throat and my pulses paused. Evelyn pressed closer to my side, and I felt her shiver as with cold. The final words, solemn, admonitory, priest-like, were these:

"Say not Heaven is high above! Heaven ascends and descends about our deeds, daily inspecting us, where-soever we are."

Instantly she turned to me, and I saw there were tears on her cheeks, and that her long dark lashes were wet.

"You cannot tell him this, Philip," she said, her voice low but unflinching.

"No," I replied, "I cannot tell him. In his present condition, it might be fatal."

AN ENGAGEMENT IS THREATENED

American Forces Opposed By Nicaraguan Rebels.

THE ADVANCE UPON GRENADA

When a Detachment Under Major Butler Was Sent to Open Up Communications With Beleagured City, It Was Fired Upon by the Rebels, This Act Creating Situation Which May Precipitate a Serious Engagement.

Washington, Sept. 20.—It having become known that the opposition to the advance of the American forces is threatened by the rebels at a point between Managua, the capital, and Granada, the chief rebel stronghold, the Nicaraguan situation has taken a sudden and acute turn. Reinforcements have been hurried forward from Managua, with Admiral Southerland in personal command, and it is expected that if the rebels persist in their opposition an engagement may take place.

Admiral Southerland reported that he was sending Major McKelvey with a battalion of marines and Lieutenant Commander Long with a company of bluejackets to reinforce Major Butler, who started for Granada four days ago. The admiral stated that he was accompanying the force, and also reported that two three-inch field guns were being taken along.

The purpose of the advance toward Granada is to the open communication with that city which have been cut off for nearly two months, or ever since General Mena took his soldiers and police out of Managua and bombarded that city. Most shocking conditions have been reported to the American legation in Managua as prevailing in Granada under the rebel domination of the place.

According to unofficial advices received here Major Butler's forces were fired on by the rebels when his trains approached Mazaya. Major Butler withdrew and sent a note to Zeledon, the rebel general, stating that he desired only to open the railroad to Granada and that he preferred to do it peacefully. He added that if no reply was received from Zeledon by four o'clock, he would begin his advance. Zeledon replied before the hour, stating he would be glad to talk it over with Major Butler the next morning. From the fact that reinforcements are now being hurried to Major Butler, it is inferred that Zeledon has declined to permit the Americans to pass peacefully through Mazaya.

A recent dispatch from Minister Weltzel states that confirmation of the slaying of two Americans, named Craven and Dodd, by rebels at Leon has been received. It seems that Craven was wounded in the fighting, during which 500 federalists were slaughtered and had entered a house for refuge. Dodd was there caring for Craven. Both were unarmed. The house was broken into by rebels and both men were then deliberately murdered on the spot.

TIME EXTENDED

Convicted Labor Leaders Have Until November to Complete Appeal.

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor have been granted until Nov. 1 to complete their appeal to the district appellate court from their conviction for alleged contempt of court by Judge Wright. The cases will not be argued until next February.

Gompers was sentenced to a year in jail, Mitchell to nine months and Morrison to six months.

Had a Good Effect.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—Reports to the state board of health for August show that the board's crusade to compel complete compliance with the statistical laws is bearing fruit. More than one hundred more births were reported in the state that month than in July. The total in August was 4,795 and the total in July was 4,653.

Accepts Presidency of DePauw.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—The Rev. George Richmond Grose, pastor of Grace M. E. church of Baltimore, has notified Hugh Daugherty, president of the DePauw university board of trustees, that he has accepted the presidency of DePauw. The invitation of Dr. Grose was offered unanimously by the board.

ACCUSED OF HOLDING OUT PUBLIC RECORDS

Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray In Trouble in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 20.—On a warrant sworn out at the instance of the secretary of the interior, Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray, who attracted some attention last winter by her activity before congress committees in relation to Indian matters, was arrested, charging her with having forcibly retained certain public records taken from the files of the interior department relating to Crow Indian affairs. She was held to bail in the sum of $1000. She admitted that she had certain papers and had refused to return them. Mrs. Gray explained that the papers had been at the department of justice all the while, and since her arrest were placed at the disposition of the secretary of the interior. Mrs. Gray has been in Washington for three or four years. Formerly she was on the Crow Indian reservation in Montana and was the central figure in several varieties of excitement while there. Subsequently she appeared in Washington ostensibly in the interests of the Indians.

"These records which I am accused of stealing," said Mrs. Gray, "are now safely locked up at the department of justice. They involve more than $100,000.00 worth of property, of which the Crow Indians, whom I represent, are the legitimate owners."

Lost Him a Nice Job.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Harry E. Nolan, the young man who was released from police custody in New York a few days ago because of lack of evidence to prove charges of abduction, will not enter the diplomatic service to which he held the appointment of secretary of the American legation at Panama, when arrested about two weeks ago. In an official statement of the case, Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson said that Nolan, from motives of delicacy, would prefer not to ask for an appointment at this time.

FUNDOS ARE NOT PLENTIFUL

Democrats' Appeal to Rank and File Not Working.

New York, Sept. 20.—Word has gone around that the saying "all is well and the goose hangs high" is not pertinent to the treasury of the Democratic Committee. Since the committee commenced publishing its campaign contributions the members have been scored for not giving in the expenses. One of the members is quoted as saying that "Wilson would be defeated tomorrow, if the voters knew how little support his campaign is receiving financially." This can only be realized by balancing accounts. Publishing the expense, it is feared, would show too many drastic ways of creating Wilson sentiment that is not genuine. But Republicans are making good use of the rumor.

The silk production of Japan has nearly doubled in the last ten years.

KILLED PEOPLE FOR RESISTING

Emilio Campa's Reign of Terror in Sonora.

HAS LOOTED ANOTHER TOWN

Breaking Away From Altar Where the Federals Thought They Had Him "Bottled Up," Bloodthirsty Rebel Leader Makes a Raid Upon Caborcia, Which He Looted, Killing Many of the Inhabitants Who Resisted.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 20.—Reported by the Mexican federals as "bottled up" south of Altar in Sonora, which he looted this week, Emilio Campa has made a raid on Caborcia, Sonora. He looted the entire town, killing many of the people of the place for resisting him. The storekeepers had heard of the atrocities committed by Campa in other places and put up a fight of resistance. After looting the place, Campa left for Noria, which is only sixty miles south of the international line from Douglas, Ariz. At Noria he will be joined, he said by the rebel command of Escubosa.

Additional Mexican federal troops are to be sent across the United States for fighting the rebels in Sonora, according to announcement of General Augustin Sanjines, main federal commander at Agua Prieta.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, sr., father of the rebel general, was arraigned at Marfa, Tex., on the charge of murder, made by the Mexican consul there in an effort to extradite him. The United States has an indictment here against him, charging ammunition smuggling and will insist that he be tried first on this charge, according to United States officials here.

Eighty federals near Musquiz, Coahuila, were defeated by 250 rebels, a large number of the federals being killed.

READY TO BOLT

Not All New York Democrats Stand For Boss Murphy.

New York, Sept. 20.—What the Empire State Democracy calls a finish fight to end the domination of Charles F. Murphy over the Democratic party of this state, was agreed upon at a meeting here. To this end an entire state ticket was nominated.

The circulation of petitions to get the ticket on the ballots will begin immediately. The law is that there must be 6,000 signers for the whole state and at least fifty in every county.

If the coming Democratic convention should nominate a ticket not dictated by Mr. Murphy and his associates and acceptable to the Empire State Democrats, the latter's candidates will be withdrawn and the bolters will return to the regular party.

The Empire State Democracy concludes that "by nominating a state ticket at this time we give assurances to those Democratic voters that there will be in November Democratic candidates for state offices worthy of their support."

DEFIED COURT

And For His Pains Blind Tiger Keeper Gets Record Sentence.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 20.—A record for "blind tiger" sentences was made when Joseph Randolph, on a plea of guilty to operating an unlicensed drinking place, was fined and sentenced to serve 450 days in jail. He will be released from prison in 1914, if no part of the penalty is revoked. Randolph got the limit because he not only is an old offender, but because he said to the court: "You might as well make my fine $1,000—it will do you as much good, because you won't get a cent, anyway."

Randolph charged the police department with showing favoritism to certain "blind tiger" operators.

Detroit Welcomes Wilson.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—Woodrow Wilson's train passed through the towns of Niles, Dowagiac, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Albion, Jackson, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti on his way from Chicago to Detroit, where he spoke last night. The governor was called to the rear platform in every city by interested crowds. A crowd that overflowed the armory greeted Governor Wilson here.

An Extension of the Recall.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 20.—Colonel Roosevelt came out squarely in a speech to 15,000 people packing the auditorium here in favor of the recall of president for inefficiency or misconduct in office. The boldness and novelty of the proposition advanced by the colonel were such as to make the crowd gasp and then it testified its approval by thunders of applause.

THE HORSE PLAGUE REMAINS UNCHECKED

Kansas Farmers Face a Serious Condition.

Kansas City, Sept. 20.—Retarding fall plowing, besides the loss of thousands of horses, the horse plague, which has caused great loss to Kansas farmers, remains unchecked and in a large part unexplained. The Kansas university veterinarians claim to have proven that the disease is similar to spinal meningitis and that it is not contagious. The germ is believed to come from a fungus growth in the grass, due either to the severe winter or wet spring. Twenty-six counties in the western part of the state are the severest sufferers. In hundreds of cases farmers are left without a single horse or cow.

The disease has appeared in Oklahoma, Nebraska and Missouri. Missouri authorities have called a meeting of the board of agriculture and state veterinarians to be held here tomorrow to determine whether to bar all feed stuff from Kansas this winter. The number of horses lost by the disease will total close to ten thousand.

TRAIN WILL GO OVER BIG FOUR

L. E. & W. Unable to Supply Special For Newcastle and Other Arrangements Are Made.

WILL LEAVE HERE AT 11:30

Manager Maibaugh Signs Roy Golden of Cincinnati Who Will be in Game Sunday.

Owing to the failure of the L. E. & W. railway to supply a special train to Newcastle Sunday for the ball game between Rushville and the Maxwell teams, a change in arrangements has been made. The special will be run over the Big Four instead of the L. E. & W. as was first announced.

It was only after the hardest kind of work that Manager Maibaugh secured the special train over the Big Four and the fans will not be disappointed. The train will be run by the way of Shirley. Because the distance over the Big Four is somewhat farther, the train will leave here at 11:30 o'clock and returning leave Newcastle at 6 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be the same as over the other road.

For a time this morning it seemed doubtful whether a train would be secured, but the new arrangements will prove satisfactory because the large crowd of rooters do not care how they get to Newcastle, just as long as they get there.

Rather than disappoint the people the train was secured. The special will stop at Carthage and Knightstown and many people from these two towns will make the trip. It is estimated that the crowd will be larger than that which made the trip to the first game between the two teams at Newcastle.

Interest in the game continues to increase. Rushville will go there with the intention of bringing home the bacon and to do this it will be necessary to play great ball. The locals are confident of winning, especially so since it took Newcastle ten innings to beat them in the first game. One of the features of the game will be the pennant raising. The pennant of the State league won by Newcastle will be unfurled at Maxwell park. The Arlington band which will accompany the local team will give a concert before the game.

Manager Maibaugh has a nice little surprise to spring on the fans in the way of a new pitcher. He has succeeded in signing Roy Golden of Cincinnati. Golden has a record about a mile long and only last Sunday beat the Shamrocks, letting them down with only three hits and without a run. Maibaugh has been after Golden for some time, but did not succeed in landing him until this week. Golden will start the game at Newcastle and if he goes bad, Halterman or Avery will be put in. "Chick" Avery is "crazy" to get a try at Newcastle and if he does not break in Sunday will be given a chance at them in the game here September 29.

The Rushville team will line-up as follows: Finn, 3d; Carter, ss; Halterman, 1b; Cook, 2d; Dave Anderson, cf; Harrell, rf; Thomas, 1st; Bob Anderson, c; Golden, Avery or Halterman, pitch.

APPOINTED INSPECTOR.

Greenfield Republican: Miss Bessie Kinsley, a member of Upsilon Chapter of the Tri Kappa sorority of this city has been notified of her appointment as district inspector for the sorority. This is an honorary position and the appointment is made by the grand president, Miss Hazel Harrison of Columbia City. The State is divided into four districts.

IT HAS A MEANING.

Kokomo Tribune: "Don't pass prosperity up" is the pithy campaign slogan of Colonel Durbin. And that is a fetching campaign cry which has a meaning. The people in 1892 made the mistake of passing prosperity up and thereafter for four years there was no prosperity to pass around.

Young, George W. Young, A. L. Gary, Will M. Frazee, Claude Cambern, L. Link of this city and Thomas K. Mull of Manilla. It is said he will also be appointed guardian of the minor children. It has been found that Mr. Campbell left no will. Judge Sparks became acquainted with Mr. Campbell during the six years he presided as judge of the Rush-Shelby circuit court.

UNKNOWN MAN'S BODY IS BURIED

Stranger Who Dropped Dead in Knightstown is Never Identified.

MAY HAVE BEEN FROM SHELBY

The body of John Monroe, John Monroe Walker or John Montgomery, whose death occurred at the boarding house of Mrs. Carrie Shook, one week ago last Sunday evening, was taken from the Decker vault in Glencove cemetery Wednesday and interred in the Knightstown cemetery, says the Knightstown Banner. The body was held for more than a week with no claimant.

Mrs. Shook received a letter the other day from Mrs. Arthur Talbert, rural route 1, Shelbyville, in which the writer states that the dead man's name was John Monroe; that he lived at their house all last winter and that she had known him ever since her girlhood days.

There was a story afloat that the unidentified man was John Montgomery of Kokomo, Ind., a rich reclusive and wanderer, who owned considerable real estate in Howard county. Before the man died he said he owned property in Kokomo, but it is not known that he gave his name as Montgomery. Harry Pea of Rushville, who was well acquainted with Montgomery, says the description of the unidentified man answers to that of Montgomery.

TO SET ASIDE DEED.

Newcastle Courier: The H. Stratemyer, Co., a Cincinnati corporation, has entered suit against Ella H. Buechel and others of Knightstown to set aside a deed. It is charged that Mrs. Buechel was owing the plaintiff and transferred real estate in order to keep from paying her indebtedness.

STATE CASES SET FOR TRIAL

One Against Blakemon and Ferguson For Blackmail Will be Tried Monday, Sept. 30.

JOHN RYAN CASE NEXT DAY

Dismissal of Suit Marks Close of Seward Liquor License Tangle—Other Court Acts.

Judge Blair today set two criminal cases for trial, that of the State against William Blakemon and John Ferguson, both colored, for blackmail, and that of the State against John Ryan for assault and battery. The former will be tried Monday, September 30, and the latter will be tried the next day, Tuesday, October first.

Both cases are on grand jury indictments returned in the April term of court. It will be remembered the two colored men were indicted previous to the April indictment, and it was quashed for technical reasons. The men are charged with blackmailing Marion McCann.

The trouble first started when Blakemon brought suit for damages against McCann, charging he alienated his (Blakemon's) wife affections. This civil suit was sent to Hancock circuit court at Greenfield on a change of venue and was to come up for trial today. It will be recalled Blakemon could not get bond at first and an unsuccessful effort was made to get his release on a writ of habeas corpus. He later was released on bond.

The indictment was returned against John Ryan, a road supervisor of Richland township, because of his alleged attack on the trustee of the township when the latter attempted to obtain a road scraper in Ryan's possession. Ryan declared he was still supervisor because his successor had not been named. A successor was elected but could not serve on account of other duties, and the trustee appointed one.

The injunction and damage suit, in which $500 was demanded of Basil Seward, a local saloon keeper, against Clara Bebout, sheriff, and Merrill Ball, John E. Harrison and T. J. Humes, commissioners, was dismissed today by the plaintiff, and the judgment for court costs was assessed against him by Judge Blair. This action was brought after the commissioners and sheriff obtained a restraining order to close his business on the theory that he was not entitled to a license under the law, according to the quota of saloons allowed here in proportion to the population.

The suit was the outgrowth of the refusal of the commissioners to grant Seward a license. The case was appealed to the circuit court and taken to the Franklin circuit court where a license was granted.

The commissioners heard a petition which alleged that Seward did not own the saloon and that the government license had been taken under another name. They found for the petitioner and the case was appealed to the circuit court, and then sent to the Marion circuit court on a change of venue. The Marion county court reversed the decision of the commissioners.

In the case of Frank Wilson against Edward A. Frazee and son, Edward Frazee for $1200 damages, asked for injuries sustained to a horse run into by the defendants' automobile, the plaintiff dismissed the suit as the first defendant, the father, and filed an amended complaint as to the son. Recently Judge Blair held that the father could not be held liable for the son's actions.

WHAT DOES IT ALL MEAN?

Inscription on Bull Moose Pin May Mean Something.

Ben McFarlan, county chairman of the Bull Moose party, has received a consignment of Bull Moose pins from Indianapolis. They consist of a miniature Bull Moose, with the inscription "P. T. A. P." across the head of the moose. The inscription has worried a lot of people considerably. They can not understand what the letters stand for. It has been suggested that they mean "Progressive Theodore Albert Party."

AT LAST SECRET IS GIVEN PUBLICITY

Richmond Newspapers Announce Deposed Bull Moose Nominee Settled Claims Held by Company.

ARE SAID TO BE ABOUT $2500

The Richmond newspapers are out with a story that Joseph A. Greenstreet, deposed sixth district nominee of the Bull Moose party, has made a satisfactory settlement with the stockholders of the Charter Oak and Handle Company as regards the claims which are said to have been standing against him since 1905. The Palladium says:

The exact amount of the settlement was not given out by the attorney for the stockholders, but he did not deny the fact that the outstanding claims of $2500 were liquidated in the settlement.

Immediately following the district convention which was held in Richmond September 3, Mr. Greenstreet made the assertion that he did not consider that he owed the Charter Oak and Handle company any money and that if they had any claim against him he invited them to collect it, stating that he was collectable. He said that he had an undivided third interest in his father's estate, which estate was valued at $50,000.

After Mr. Greenstreet's statement was published the stockholders, through their attorney, immediately took steps to collect the amount due. A demand was made and suit threatened, with the result that satisfactory settlement was made yesterday.

LEVI AND RAINEY TRIAL POSTPONED

Jake Williams, Victim of Cutting, Is Unable to Appear and Case Was Not Heard.

DATE HAS NOT BEEN DECIDED

The trial of Claude Levi and Will Rainey, charged jointly with assault with intent to kill Jake Williams, which was set for this afternoon, was postponed for two reasons. The first is that Williams was unable to appear because the cut on his leg has not sufficiently healed. The second reason given was because Prosecutor Morgan was too busy with the closing session of the grand jury. During the rush of business connected with the dismissing of the grand jury, Mr. Morgan could not have acted in the mayor's court even if Williams had been able to appear.

Williams is still confined to his room and the case may not be heard for several days.

IS AMOUNT MORE THAN REPORTED?

Indications Point That Roy Murphy Got Considerable Over $363.10 In Gasoline Swindle.

AMOUNT FOR ONLY ONE BOOK

First Order in That Taken After he Had Been Here Some Time—Still in Jail.

Did Roy Murphy, who was arrested yesterday on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, get more money from Rush county people on his cheap gasoline scheme than was first thought? The police are of the opinion that he got by with considerable more than was first reported, which was $363.10.

This opinion is based on the fact that Murphy had two order books and the sum of $363.10 was taken from one of the books found on his person.

It is known that Murphy had the two books printed in this city but what became of the other one is not known. The first order given in the book which is in possession of the police, was given by Charles Caldwell.

The order of Mr. Caldwell came to Murphy indirectly and was given several weeks after he had started work on the swindle. Mr. Caldwell gave his order to John Stiers, who, in turn, gave it to Murphy.

As Murphy had been working here some time the police believe he had filled one of the books with orders and collected the money. In this way it is estimated that he got several hundred dollars more money than the one book shows.

The case when it comes before the grand jury may reveal several things that are not known. It is estimated the Murphy may be forced to explain where he spent the money obtained here and from rumors this may expose a gambling joint not known to exist by the police. Murphy got rid of the money in some unknown manner, because when arrested and searched he didn't have enough to purchase a postage stamp. The money was not deposited in any of the local banks and the future developments may be interesting.

While Murphy led a pretty fast life when business was good, it can not be determined where he ever spent the $363.10. He is known to have been a good fellow on more than one occasion and at all times apparently had plenty of money. His swindle worked, but he stayed just a little bit too long. Murphy was unable to get bail and is still in jail.

INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Cleo Lummis of Carthage Is Thrown From Wagon.

Cleo Lummis, a farm hand in the employ of the Rev. Charles S. Winslow, suffered a dislocated knee Wednesday when he was thrown from a wagon load of tomatoes. He was driving a horse and a mule. Meeting an automobile he braced himself but the tomato box on which he was sitting gave way and pitched the man forward. He fell between the team. The accident occurred just north of Ernest Heims. Mrs. Heims telephoned to Rue P. Henley's and Mrs. Hanley stopped the team. Mr. Winslow was called and brought Mr. Lummis to the hospital.

MEN TO RESCUE OF HORSE SHOW

Committees Are at Work Today Endeavoring to Get Sufficient Financial Backing For Fall Event.

RESULT OF LAST NIGHT'S MEET

Secretary J. C. Ryburn Makes Report Showing $314.16 Now on Hands.

Although the annual fall horse show is not practically assured, the prospect for it look decidedly improved today after the meeting of business men in the court house last night in its welfare.

The crowd did not number over thirty, but all the men there had the interests of the horse show at heart and wanted to see it succeed. On motion of Will M. Bliss, H. G. Hackman, president of the Retail Merchants Association, who presided at the meeting, appointed several committees, who were assigned to various sections of the city to seek subscriptions to finance the show.

The committees went at it this morning with a vim and enthusiasm that promised success for their efforts. It is reported that the solicitors met with some success, but it will not be known until tomorrow for a certainty that there is enough financial backing to make the horse show possible.

Anthony Schrichte, former president of the Retail Merchants Association, was on hand with his keg of enthusiasm, and he untapped it with characteristic vigor. He asserted that the horse show was one of the best things ever tried in Rushville as an advertiser. He declared that it had been in the hands of men of unquestionable integrity, and that it should be continued.

Mayor Black was called upon to express his opinion of the horse show. He said that he would be glad to co-operate for the success of the show, would donate his part and would be willing to assist anyway he could.

Will A. Jones expressed the belief that the show should be given in an enclosure where admission fee could be charged. He said that other horse shows in other cities had been made to pay for themselves, and there was no reason why the Rushville show shouldn't. He said that he did not like to show his horses on the brick streets, but that he would give his part and enter his horses just the same. He said a better show could be had if the event were held some place where there is a track.

Will Bliss said that the talk would not make the horse show and that the most necessary thing was to appoint committees to go out and get the money. He declared that if the money could not be raised there were but two alternatives: give the show where admission could be charged or not give the show.

At the opening of the meeting J. C. Ryburn, secretary of the horse show who was in charge last year and was re-elected for this year, gave a financial report.

The report showed that there is now a balance on hands of $314.16 left over from last year. Last year, Mr. Ryburn said, a sum of $1143 was collected on popular subscriptions. There was one $25 subscription, a few $20 subscriptions, a great many at $10, still more at $5, and a few ranging from $2.50 on down to 50 cents.

There was collected for entrance fees $208.80. That added to $438.16 accumulated from the four previous years shows the total amount of funds handled last year. There is, it will be noted, a discrepancy of $3 which was accounted for by the secretary by the fact that one subscription of that size was not paid.

The secretary read an itemized list of the expenses last year totaling $1442.80. This subtracted from the total leaves $314.16 which is now on hands.

In order to make the horse show any ways near as good as last year it will be necessary to raise at least five hundred dollars more than the $775 already subscribed. It is imperative that the show be financed at once as the premium lists would have been printed and distributed a week ago. The show officials are anxious to get them over the country at the horse shows and the closing race meets so that horsemen will prepare to come here and not make other arrangements.

1913 CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD HERE

Ministers, Meeting in Jeffersonville, Today Accept Invitation to Come to Rushville

THE VOTE IS UNANIMOUS

The 1913 session of the Indiana M. E. conference, now meeting in Jeffersonville, will be held in Rushville.

The conference this morning unanimously accepted the invitation of the Rev. W. H. Wylie, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church, to meet here next year. The session will be held in September. It will be recalled that the Rev. Mr. Wylie and the Rev. V. W. Tevis of this city, district superintendent, announced before leaving for the conference they would invite it here next year, and that they had every assurance that their invitation would be accepted.

The conference will bring from three to four hundred ministers in the Methodist church to Rushville. They will be entertained in private homes.

The bishop and eight district superintendents in the Indiana conference were busy this afternoon making up the list of assignments and the ministers got a half holiday. It is expected the Rev. W. H. Wylie will be sent back to the Rushville church.

GRAND JURY WAS PREPARING TO QUIT

Was Expected to Make Returns Late This Afternoon and be Dismissed by Court.

VISITED COUNTY POOR FARM

Late this afternoon the grand jury was preparing to make its returns and be dismissed by Judge Blair. The final act of the body, the inspection of the county poor asylum, was done this afternoon. The grand jury returned about three o'clock and retired to the third floor to prepare to make its returns.

A number of cases have been under investigation, and several indictments will be returned. Since the last grand jury, two cases have been sent to the grand jury from mayor's court, and in each an indictment was expected.

The grand jury has inspected the county jail, and it is said, also has taken a look around the court house, with a view to making recommendations.

ADVISES CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT

Stockholder of Rush County Fair Association Sounds Note of Warning in Open Letter.

DEBT INCREASES EACH YEAR

Suggests Stockholders' and Family Tickets be Tabooed—Grounds May Have to be Sold.

If the advice of a stockholder is taken the method of managing the Rush County Fair Association which gives the annual fair will be revolutionized. In a communication sent to the Daily Republican today, he argues that some drastic change should be made else the grounds will be sold to pay the debts of the association.

He suggests that both family and stockholders tickets be done away with and that everybody pay to get into the grounds. He points out that not another institution in America admits a family of ten or fifteen as cheaply as it does a man and his wife. His communication follows:

The Rush county fair has come and gone, leaving a considerable debt to add to the already incumbrance of twenty-three hundred dollars. The question is how are they ever to get out of debt, when this year everything was favorable? Even going so far this year to get money, as to rent privileges, for shows for men only, public dance halls and games of chance—all of which is not creditable to Rush county?

There are four hundred stockholders, and last year at the annual election there were fewer than fifty present, showing a lack of interest taken in the election.

Here are a few suggestions to save the grounds from being sold for debt: First do away with all family tickets, even the stockholders' tickets. I doubt if there is another institution in America that admits a family of ten to fifteen for the same price as a man and his wife; then the directors should not be scattered as they are now—several of them are on the borders of other counties and they never see each other until they are called together in March to make a premium list—it generally results in taking an old list and adopting it with a very few changes.

Where is a successful business man that would scatter his partners so he could not see them but once or twice a year? Men should be elected that would give it their attention, otherwise our beautiful grounds will have to be sold for debt. The grounds should be made to pay a dividend and would if the above suggestions were carried out.

Respectfully, STOCKHOLDER.

POULTRY NOTES

Keep your chicks on dry ground. Oats make an excellent ration for laying hens.

Nothing fattens young turkeys like plenty of corn.

Don't overcrowd the brooders, brood coops or colony coops.

The young turkeys will not begin to fatten until cold weather sets in.

Never let the hen and her young roost away from home a single night.

It is best to kill fowls ten hours before preparing them for the table.

Poor quality poultry and eggs are hard to sell or get rid of at any price.

Clip the main feathers on one wing of the fence flyer. That will keep her in.

Plow or spade up chicken runs, if not well grassed, and sow oats or rye.

Move chick colonies to new ground before the grass in the old run is quite gone.

Don't fail to supply abundant shade and shelter for adult fowls and growing chicks.

The smoother the roosting poles the more easily they can be kept free from vermin.

The stock will benefit from your intelligent use of a good lice and mite killing preparation during the heated term.

Do not let your young birds roost with the old hens, as they are liable to catch diseases which old hens are more subject to.

All hens which have completed their second laying season should be disposed of at once, to make room for the young stock.

The Family Trunk.

"Why doesn't that house of yours rent?"

"For the same reason I can't rent this lot of things."

"What reason is that?"

"The same reason that makes your house a house of horrors."

ANOTHER PHASE TO MAINE RESULT

One of Border States Which Was Alleged to be Resentful Because of Reciprocity.

RETURNS FAIL TO SHOW IT

Evidently Prefer Republican Regime to Wilson And His Extreme Tariff Views.

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

New York, September 20.—Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, issued a further statement concerning the Maine election returns. He said:

"I have been in communication with various Republican leaders in Maine today and learn that the Republican and Taft victory in that state was absolute and complete. Not only did we elect a governor, but we elected every candidate for Congress with the exception of one, and assured an increase in the Republican representation in the Senate through the election of a Republican Legislature. In short, we have made a net gain of two in a total Congressional delegation of six in the State of Maine, which, in points of percentage, is notable and significant.

"There is one phase of the Maine results which is especially pleasing to the Republican managers, and that is that we have sustained a notable victory, not only in a state supposedly Democratic, but also in one of the border states which the Democrats have represented as being unalterably resentful of the attitude of the Republican party on reciprocity. As a matter of fact I have been told over the telephone wire today that one great factor in our Maine victory was the fact that the Canadian newspapers have been urging the election of Governor Wilson on the ground that his tariff views assured Canada even greater tariff concessions than the proposed reciprocity act, and exacting nothing in return. This, I think, is true, and doubtless will have an equally important effect in other border states.

"I cannot be too emphatic in my assertion that the Maine returns clearly sustain my claim that there could be no possible future for the Third Term movement except as an ally to Democratic success, and I believe its power to exercise this function has been materially lessened, if not entirely dissipated, as a result of Maine and its verdict."

"I cannot be too emphatic in my assertion that the Maine returns clearly sustain my claim that there could be no possible future for the Third Term movement except as an ally to Democratic success, and I believe its power to exercise this function has been materially lessened, if not entirely dissipated, as a result of Maine and its verdict."

WILL WIN IN NOVEMBER

Maine Campaigner Says Taft Will Carry it Again

New York, September 20.—Ralph D. Cole, of Ohio, a former member of Congress, and an ardent Taft worker, returned to New York today from Maine, where he had an active part in the notable Republican victory in that State yesterday.

"I felt confident that the Republicans would win out in Maine yesterday," said Mr. Cole, "and I feel confident that the Republican national ticket, with President Taft as its drawing card, will poll a larger vote in Maine in November."

ASSURED.

New York, Sept. 20.—Job Hedges, of New York, was a caller at the Republican national headquarters in the Times Building. Mr. Hedges had just returned from a tour of New York State, and called upon Chairman Hilles to express his confidence in Republican success in the Empire State in November.

McPHERSON SURE OF VICTORY.

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 20.—Isaac V. McPherson, nominee of the Republicans in the 15th Congressional district, is making some odd bets on his election which will benefit various charities. The nomination of H. H. Gregg has shattered Democratic strength and secured a big Republican victory.

SAYS IT IS TAFT SURE

Gov. Tener of Pennsylvania Is Optimistic Over Prospects.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 19.—Governor Tener, of this state, has issued a statement that has added much enthusiasm to the Republicans of Pennsylvania. He says:

"The solid conservative element among the voters is not saying anything. While the present outlook appears to favor a great many votes for Wilson cast principally to defeat Roosevelt, I am sure that when the time comes the ballots will be cast for President Taft. Voters on second sober thought will not go back on the protective policies which have made this State so influential. It remains to be seen, however, whether they will vote for substantial achievement or mere promises."

THIS IS UNKINDEST CUT OF THEM ALL

Statement of Gov Wilson That He Has Revolutionized New Jersey is Refuted.

CLAIMS ARE ALL UNFOUNDED

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Trenton, N. J., September 20.—Right in the heart of the Wilson camp the Republican State Committee of New Jersey has thrown a bomb of incalculable proportions. It is a neat little statement, refuting the claims made on behalf of the Democratic Presidential candidate that he has "revolutionized, redeemed and righted" the government of the State of New Jersey. Says the Republican Committee:

"The most astounding and ill-founded claims regarding the wonders of legislation accomplished by Governor Wilson were spread broadcast by his publicity bureau to gain for him the nomination for President. These claims can in most instances be refuted by the legislative records, which will show that the great bulk of the remedial and progressive legislation for the benefit of the people and especially for the benefit of the working class has had its inception if not its actual enactment in Republican legislatures. The governor's neglect of the current business of the State should be exposed, together with his use of patronage build up a personal political machine, his shielding of a Democratic State Senator whom a majority of the Senate found guilty of betrayal of the Senatorial trust, and his calculated use of the Governorship to advance his political fortunes in disregard of the contract made with the people of New Jersey to serve them faithfully as their executive for the term of three years. There is no lack of ammunition to conduct a winning fight against the Democratic machine in this State."

PANIC WILL FOLLOW WILSON

Will Begin 24 Hours After His Election—Humphrey.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 19.—Congressman W. E. Humphrey, who is one of the big Republicans following the trail of the Bull Moose went of the Mississippi, started his campaign today.

His principal address is directed against Governor Wilson. He declares should Wilson be elected a panic will begin in this country within twenty-four hours after that fact is known. On the other hand, says the conditions throughout the nation today are such that if Taft be elected there is every reason to believe that the country will enter upon a period of prosperity never before known. The business world is awaiting the verdict and this is the real issue of the campaign, Mr. Humphrey says.

The United States ranks first in production of goods and exports in the world.

CONTINUE WORK OF THE OUTLOOK

Republican National Committee Shows Legislation of Last Congress Began With Republicans.

DEMOCRATIC BILLS PARTISAN

T. R. Handbill Classifies Work of House Under Head of Sins of Omission.

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

New York, Sept. 20.—The humorists of the Republican national headquarters in this city have dubbed "The Outlook," made famous by the connection of Colonel Roosevelt with it, as contributory editor, "Roosevelt's Handbill." Recently this periodical took the trouble to classify the legislation of the last Congress. The bad laws of the Democratic House are classified as "sins of omission."

These sins of omission which it credits to Congress are its failures

To pass needed tariff legislation, to pass needed trust legislation, to pass needed monetary legislation, to pass needed naval legislation, to abolish the involuntary servitude of seamen, to pass a workmen's compensation bill, to extend agricultural education, to act on the president's civil service recommendations.

The Republican headquarters have taken up the matter where the "Outlook" left off and are sending out little booklets which show that practically all the good legislation of the second session of the sixty-second Congress was of Republican initiation, much of it originating with the administration.

Republicans say that there were no reasons, save narrow partisan ones, why the Democratic house majority buried the epoch-making workmen's compensation act and the Republican trust bills, and refused to extend the civil service in compliance with the findings of the president's bureau of economy and efficiency.

MOOSE DECAY IN MICHIGAN SHOWN

Under Peculiar State Law They Make Pitiful Showing by Enrolling 2½ Per Cent. of Vote.

SIGNIFICANCE OF SHOWING

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19.—Charles B. Warren, Republican National Committeeman from this state, is giving out some facts that are proving uncomfortable reading for the Progressives in this state.

"Some points regarding the recent vote in Michigan have not yet been brought out, but they ought to be emphasized to illustrate how the Bull Moose movement in the state has failed to materialize," says Mr. Warren. "We have in Michigan a law which allowed anyone who had enrolled as a Republican or a Democrat to re-enroll as a Progressive. Yet, despite these wide-open doors and despite the desperate efforts to induce voters to re-enroll or to enroll in order to vote, the Roosevelt followers made a pitiful showing. They enrolled only 2½ per cent of the total vote of the state. We believe that the showing is significant. We believe that it indicates that when election day comes next November, practically all of the Republicans will be found lined up with their party and with President Taft."

In Germany there is a total number of 11,900 women filing honorary positions in cities and on charity boards. In 155 municipalities 7,000 women are in active service for the care of the poor and of orphans. In 115 towns there are women serving on school boards.

LESSON FOR SEPT. 22.

FEEDING THE FIVE THOUSAND.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:30-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life."—John 6:35.

This parable marks the high level of the year of popularity in the life of our Lord. It is such an important miracle as to be the only one recorded by all four gospel writers.

The returning disciples (v. 30) are urged by the Master to come with him into a desert place that they might rest, and also that he might comfort their hearts over the death of John the Baptist. "They had no leisure," Jesus knew the need and also the proper use of leisure. But the multitude would not grant this and flocked to his retreat in the desert. They saw and followed that they might listen to his gracious words or behold some new wonder, but Jesus also saw and ministered, v. 24. Carlsile said he saw in England "forty millions, mostly fools." Not so with Jesus. He saw and was moved, not with sarcasm, but with compassion, which compassion took a tangible form of service. It is interesting to note in verse 34 that the compassion of Jesus led him first, of all to teach. It is better to teach a man how to help himself than to help the man. We also infer from this verse that the soul of a man is of more value than his body. It is not enough, however, to say, "God bless you, be fed and warm," when a man is hungry. So it is that Jesus listened to his disciples when they saw the physical need of the multitude.

A Great Task.

St. John tells us in this connection of the conversation with Philip. Philip lived in Bethsaida near by, yet to feed this multitude was for him too great a task, even with his knowledge of the resources at hand, John 6:5-7. Yet we need not be surprised at Philip's slowness of faith. Moses in like manner was once nonplussed how to feed six thousand in the wilderness, see Num. 11:21-23. It is not so much as to how great the need nor how little we possess, but rather is the little given to God.

Another disciple, Andrew, who had discovered the Saviour unto Peter, discovers as though in desperation a boy whose mother had thoughtfully provided him with a lunch consisting of five barley biscuits and two small dried herring (John 6:9), at least that much remained. It is a great commentary upon the tide of interest at this time that this boy should not have eaten his lunch, for a boy's hunger is proverbial. It seems as though Jesus emphasizes the helplessness of the disciples in order that he may show his power. His command, "give ye them," (v. 37) teaches us that we are to give such as we have, not look to others, nor do our charity by proxy. Prov. 11:24, 25.

Again the Saviour asks his disciples to see (v. 38) as though he would teach them the boundless resources of his kingdom. Give what you have and he will bless and increase it to the supplying of the needs of the multitude. The secret of success was when he took the loaves and "looking up" for God also saw on that day, and blessed it.

We need to observe the systematic procedure. The people seated or reclining upon the ground in ranks or by companies. The Master blessing and breaking the boy's cakes and giving first to the disciples, for God only works such miracles through human agencies, and then giving to the people. The result of this systematic procedure was that "all did eat," and further, they were satisfied, v. 42. Not alone, however, was there Divine order and lavishness, but there was economy and thrift as well, for Jesus gave careful directions as to the fragments. The lavishness is shown by the fact that the baskets into which the fragments were gathered were each large enough in which to sleep.

Living Bread.

The conversation process was a stinging rebuke to the improvident orientals, and to the present day prodigals of that wonderful bounty with which God has blessed our land.

God gives to us that we may use. Joy dies unless it is shared. Jesus, the living bread (John 6:48) will satisfy hunger, and life, as bread, generates in the human body heat, energy, vitality, power, etc., so he would feed the hungry souls of mankind. We have at hand the Word; it is for lack of it that men die in the deepest sense of that word.

The poverty and perplexity of the disciples in his presence and the presence of this great need is being repeated over and over today and yet it is absurd. We have not enough to feed the multitude. Our few loaves of amusements, mental activities, etc., will not feed them, but when we break unto them the Living Bread they have enough and to spare. The words of the late Markie Babcock are appropriate in this connection:

Back of the loaf is the snowy flour,
And back of the flour the mill,
And back of the mill is the wheat and the sheaf,

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS.

Sept. 22, 1912.

(Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

The Feeding of the Five Thousand, Mark vi:30-44.

Golden Text—Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life. John vi:35.

(1) Verse 30—What is the advantage of telling God in detail about ourselves and our affairs?

(2) What would you say the twelve told Jesus concerning "what they had done and what they had taught?"

(3) Verse 31—What is the relative importance of necessary work and necessary rest?

(4) What evidence is there that, notwithstanding his busy life, Jesus taught by precept and example the need of taking proper rest?

(5) Verse 32—Is it either wise or necessary for a faithful minister of the gospel to tell the people when he takes a rest?

(6) Verse 33—If Jesus intended to go away "privately" how do you account for it that his plans were upset?

(7) Jesus intended to take a rest with his disciples, but instead was plunged into more intense work. Now, which would you say was God's preference, that Jesus' intention should be carried out or that which actually happened?

(8) To a man of God which is divine guidance, what he expects to do or what he actually does?

(9) Verse 34—If preachers and other Christian teachers succeed in making Christ actually known to the masses will the people flock to Christ, as in those days? Why?

(10) What was the condition of the people which so moved the heart of Jesus, and what conditions today are there which when known stir similar compassion in all Christian hearts?

(11) Which are the people in more need of today, preaching or teaching?

(12) Verses 35-36—Were the disciples right or wrong, and why, in calling the attention of Jesus to the needs of the multitude?

(13) If our heavenly Father knows our temporal needs what is the benefit of calling his attention to them?

(14) Verse 37—Does God ever command his children to do that which he knows they cannot? Give your reasons.

(15) Whom does God command to feed the millions of the earth who are spiritually hungry, and when and how does he expect it to be done?

(16) When God commands us to do that which looks to us to be impossible is it wisdom or folly for us to attempt it, and why?

(17) Verses 38-40—What is the proof that we have all the necessary qualities and opportunities to accomplish the work in life to which we are appointed by God? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(18) When a man is not systematic, and works without method is that any evidence that he is not true to the laws of God? Why?

(19) Verses 41-44—Why should everybody ask a blessing before eating?

(20) By what means did five small loaves and two fishes feed 5,000 men? Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 23, 1912. Review.

TOPIC FOR SEPTEMBER 22.

Believe! Believe Much! Believe Strongly! John 11:17-27, 41-44.

True belief is founded upon knowledge. It has no room for speculations. It knows that things are so because it has made a satisfactory investigation.

We need more Christians with this kind of a belief. Too many of us have been building our faith on a very small foundation of knowledge. The first blast of criticism or inquiry is sufficient to overthrow it.

We ought to know more about the Bible. We ought to be in a position to intelligently appreciate the message that God has for us. If we really understood God's promises some of us would have less difficulty in bolstering up our faith.

This foundation of definite knowledge of God's word would tend toward a unity in beliefs. There are nearly two hundred different Protestant denominations. Surely there would be no better way to bring them into a closer unity than to have a common knowledge of the Bible.

Back of the loaf is the snowy flour,
And back of the flour the mill,
And back of the mill is the wheat and the sheaf,
And the sheaf and the Father's will.

really read the word of God from cover to cover.

Belief does not necessarily involve comprehension. We do not need to understand all that we believe. We should be willing to leave to God the things we cannot comprehend. "He that will believe only what he can fully comprehend must have a very long head or a very short creed."

WILL BE EQUIPPED BY NEXT JULY, FIRST

State Railroad Commission Believes

All Interurbans Will be Prepared to Minimize Accidents.

I. & C. HAS 1 OF TEST SYSTEMS

As a result of the conference held in Indianapolis with the heads of the interurban lines of the State, the railroad commission predicts that by the first of next July every electric road in Indiana will be fully equipped with block signal service.

"This," said John F. McClure, member of the commission, "is going to minimize railroad accidents wonderfully."

The Indianapolis & Cincinnati line has established block signals between Indianapolis and Shelbyville and by the first of the year expects to have its entire system completed. The management of the different lines have been given thirty days in which to observe the systems already installed and to file notice with the commission of what they propose to do.

At the time the commission began to investigate the question of block signals for interurban lines, there were no systems in use that could be practically applied to electric lines. The question has been solved however, and the signals now being employed by the three roads have been approved by the commission.

WILL NOT INTERFERE

Because Samuel L. Trabue has been appointed adjutant general of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, it does not follow that he will have to leave Rushville to attend to his new duties. He says that the appointment will not interfere in the least with any of his work in Rushville.

EXPECT MAJORITY IN NEXT CONGRESS

Republicans, Figuring On Maine Results, Believe They Will Control Next Session.

GAIN A CONGRESSMAN THERE

[Special to the Daily Republican.] New York, Sept. 19th.—Having finished a careful analysis of the official returns from Maine in regard to their bearing on the Congress situation, Francis Curtis, of the Republican Congressional Committee, declares that there is an excellent chance for the return of a Republican majority in the House of Representatives in November.

"It view of the increased vote by which Congressmen Hinds and Guernsey, the two Republican members from Maine now in the House, were re-elected," says Mr. Curtis, "and the more significant fact that a third Republican member was elected, thereby reducing the Democratic representation in the Maine delegation to one, I think there is an excellent chance for a return of a Republican majority to the House of Representatives this year. I have very encouraging reports from scores of districts now represented by Democratic members, and in my opinion the people will register their disapproval of the extravagant and inefficient work of the present Democratic House at the polls next November."

WOMEN TO BE REPUBLICANS.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 20.—The Republicans of this state are not very much agitated over the fact that the women of Idaho are planning a full state ticket of their own. The majority of the women are Republicans so that the success of the party is assured anyway. Of the 75,000 voters in the state 30,000 are women.

FLOCKING TO COLUMBUS.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—The hotels of the city are filled to capacity and new guests are arriving on every train for the opening of the Republican convention tomorrow in this city. Columbus is taking on the appearance of a convention city. Hundreds of women interested in the election of Taft are among the new arrivals.

TAFT DOESN'T FEAR WILSON.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Governor Wilson has arrived here today to open the state campaign for the Democrats tonight at a mass meeting in Memorial Hall. The Republicans are not attaching great importance to the event for they do not fear the Democratic nominee and furthermore anything that he might say will be lost in the big Republican rally here tomorrow, when Senator Lodge will deliver the keynote speech of Mr. Taft's campaign.

T. R.'s COUNTY IN DOUBT.

New York, Sept. 20.—Supporters of Colonel Roosevelt in this home county are said to be getting discouraged over the way the political wind is blowing. On a test vote at a meeting just held in Mineola, Colonel Roosevelt's home county, President Taft has an overwhelming majority in the governing body of the party. The vote stood 32 to 4 in favor of President Taft.

THE YEARLY MIRACLE QUIETS NEAPOLITANS

Blood of St. Januarius Boils On Schedule.

Naples, Sept. 20.—After two hours of incessant prayers in the overcrowded cathedral where the excitement was at the highest pitch, the yearly miracle of the spontaneous boiling of the blood of St. Januarius was accomplished. The impatience of the congregation was such that the police had the utmost difficulty in keeping order. In order to prevent a rush to the high altar where the relic of the saint was exposed. Cardinal Prisco, who was present ordered a salute of 100 guns prematurely fired at 10:30 in order to allay the growing excitement of the populace outside who then believed that the liquefaction was taking place. Meanwhile the prayers were repeated with greater fervor inside the cathedral and this was kept up until noon when the blood really boiled. The salute of 100 guns was then fired again, a Te Deum was sung and the bells pealed, while the Neapolitans applauded, shouted and wept for joy, convinced that there would be immunity for eruptions of Vesuvius for another year.

St. Januarius is the patron saint of Naples. The Neapolitans say the blood of this martyr is contained in two vessels in the cathedral and when it is exposed and liquefies as it generally does in May and September, they are satisfied that they are safe from volcanic and other disasters.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Ople Grace, who was acquitted at Atlanta of shooting her husband, Eugene H. Grace, has started a suit for divorce.

"Flying today is safer than traveling at the same speed in automobiles, and is certainly much safer than auto racing," says Orville Wright.

There have been many suicides in Japan since General Nogi and his wife killed themselves. The police have prevented many other attempts.

Hearing of the suit to dissolve the International Harvester company has been interrupted by the illness of Attorney Edgar A. Bancroft, who has been conducting the defense.

There is a general conviction in Europe that war between Turkey and Serbia is imminent. Trade at Belgrade is almost at a standstill and nothing is talked of but war.

Because he pardoned a negro who was twice convicted and was sentenced to be hanged for attacking a trained nurse, Governor Donaghy of Arkansas was hanged in effigy at Little Rock.

Fred W. Carpenter, formerly secretary to President Taft and now minister to Morocco, has been appointed to be minister to Spain, succeeding Hamilton King, who died suddenly at his post a few weeks ago.

Miss Katherine Drexel is establishing a chain of Catholic schools for colored children. She is the founder of the sisterhood of the Blessed Sacrament, and the funds for the schools are derived from her private fortune.

Miss Margaret Kresge, aged nineteen years, daughter of a wealthy farmer near White Haven, Pa., was murdered by a butcher named John Savage, a disappointed suitor, who also tried to kill the girl's brother, and later killed himself.

Hugh S. Gibson, charge d'affaires at Havana, who recently figured largely in the relations between this government and Cuba, owing to the personal assault upon him by a Havana reporter, has been appointed to be secretary of legation at Brussels.

Legal, medical, moral and general warfare against the social evil as the salvation of the human race, was the keynote of the lecture course at the exhibit of the American Federation of Sex Hygiene in connection with the

HE QUOTES LAW ON CIGARETTES

Dr. Hurty's Strong Plea in De-halt of Boys.

LETTER TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Head of the State Board of Health Points Out That It Not Only Is Against the Law for a Boy to Smoke Cigarettes, but That the Habit Is One That Lowers His Efficiency in the Duties of Life.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—Because of appeals from school officials throughout the state, the board of health has written many letters advising school officials of the evil of cigarette smoking among boys. The letters quote the law on cigarette smoking. A sample follows:

Cigarette smoking is certainly an evil and the state board of health desires to abate it all it possibly can. We ask you therefore to co-operate with us in this work. It is certainly true that cigarette smokers have a lower efficiency than those who do not smoke them. If you will notice carefully you will observe that those boys who smoke cigarettes are not as bright, do not progress as rapidly as those of the same mental grade who do not use this drug. Tobacco is of course a drug. If it did not contain a drug (nicotine) it would not be in demand. It is the soothing effect of this drug that those who are addicted to smoking so much desire. Like the morphine habit, when it is once fastened upon a person it is difficult indeed to throw off. Not only does economy, efficiency and health oppose cigarette smoking and tobacco using, but the law itself commands against the use of cigarettes.

Section 1641, First Revised Statutes, provides "that any boy under sixteen years of age who smokes cigarettes is a delinquent child, and can be proceeded against as in manner provided by law for the prosecution of persons charged with misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof may be released upon probation or may be dealt with by the court in such manner as may appear to be for the best interest of the child." In the juvenile court act such prosecutions may be begun before any justice of the peace and by him certified to the circuit court of the county. It should be impressed upon the boys that it is not manly, that it is not hygienic to smoke cigarettes. They should be made to understand that it lowers their efficiency, clouds their intellect, makes them more liable to disease, and is contrary to law for a boy under sixteen years of age to use tobacco and smoke cigarettes.

TO TEACH STOCK FEEDING

Purdue to Run Special Train in Co-Operation With Railroad.

Lafayette Ind., Sept. 20.—The first week in October will mark the beginning of a new movement for better livestock in Indiana. Arrangements have been completed with the Pennsylvania railroad to operate a livestock improvement special train on the two divisions—Logansport to Richmond and Richmond to Union City, Sept. 30 to Oct. 5.

The Pennsylvania has operated special corn and wheat trains in co-operation with the Purdue university experiment station. The results from these trains have been very marked and have meant much to both the railroad and the farmers. The railroad will carry representatives of Purdue university to lecture on livestock.

The animal husbandry department of the Purdue experiment station has, perhaps, carried on more extensive investigations on beef cattle feeding than any other department in the country. The results of this work will be presented from the train. Spectator feeding steers will be carried on this train and exhibited at each stop. With the high price of feeding cattle and the high price of feed, it is important that everyone engaged in this business use the most up-to-date methods in his feeding operations. A full discussion of cattle and hog feeding in all of its phases will be given in the lectures. A short discussion will also be given on the selection of the type of feeders.

Shot by His Friend.

Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 20.—Carl Nicholson, thirty-three years of age, is in jail charged with the murder of his friend and fellow workman at a piano factory, Edward Hines, aged thirty-four. The tragedy occurred in a saloon and so far as known was not preceded by a quarrel. In a dying statement Hines declared that Nicholson pulled his gun and without a word began firing. Three shots were fired, two of which took effect. Nicholson says the shooting was accidental.

Miss Brooks Not Worried.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 20.—Another letter, in which her life was threatened, has been received by Miss Virginia Brooks, the West Hammond reformer. She was told that unless she discontinued her fight on vice she might be injured. "You may get a bomb, dynamite or nitroglycerin," the letter said. Mayor Womack, of Hammond, said he would send a

Visionary Tariff Wall.

In both Democratic and Bull Moose campaign arguments one finds frequent reference to the evil condition into which the country has fallen because of existing tariff laws. It is pointed out with all the seriousness that ordinarily goes with the statement of a fact that the tariff, wall we have erected about the country prohibits the purchase of the products of foreign countries that our people need, and that, because of this, the balance of trade wobbles to our material disadvantages.

Strangely those who utter these statements seem never to have sought accurate information. The truth is that our purchases abroad are increasing with remarkable rapidity under existing tariff laws. At no period in the history of the nation have we bought proportionately so much abroad, and at the same time we are selling more abroad.

In July of this year we imported from Canada, even without reciprocity, eleven and a third million dollars worth of goods, as against eight and a quarter millions in July, 1911. Our imports from Europe in July, 1912, were $71,562,669, as against $58,742,331 in July, 1911. Total July imports were $148,547,946, as against $118,054,204 in July, 1911. On the other hand, our exports grew from $127,696,954 in July, 1911, to $148,994,023 in July, 1912. We shipped ten million dollars worth more goods to Canada in July of this year than in July last year. To every principal country our exports show an increase save to the countries of Oceania and Africa.

The increase of both our exports and import trade has been steady throughout the year. Total exports for the seven months ending July 31, 1912, were $1,248,610,226, against $1,115,517,494 for the corresponding seven months of last year. Our imports for the seven months of 1912 were $1,033,199,690, against $851,800,156 for the corresponding months of last year.

Not one of these facts, which are taken from the records of the Department of Commerce and Labor, coincide with the statements made by Democratic and Bull Moose campaigners.

Trade increase is an index of prosperity. When that increase is found in foreign as well as domestic trade it testifies a healthy condition. Still we are told that our tariff laws are stifling trade and doing us harm. Oddly no one has produced the corroborating facts to support such an assertion.

Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, announced that a complete record of all contributions of the presidential campaign of the Republican party will be published for the inspection and consideration of the voters of the country shortly after October 15.

It is the opinion of Chairman Hilles that the Congressional Campaign Fund Publicity Act, signed by President Taft on August 19, 1911, contains specific provision that all national committees, whether organized merely for the furtherance of congressional campaign or for the election of a national ticket must make public their campaign contributions not more than fifteen days and not less than ten days prior to the elections. Mr. Hilles, therefore, says that the Republican National Committee, in making this announcement, does not do so in the hope of being declared virtuous, and takes a fling at the Democratic National Committee for striking such a pose upon making a similar announcement.

Suggestions For Perkins.

Between prosecutions by the legislature of the State of New York, probably dissolution proceedings by Mr. Taft's attorney general and further prosecutions for violation of the labor law, George W. Perkins, Bull Moose backer and social reformer may be compelled to eventually seek other fields for his Harvester Trust factory. Since Mr. Perkins is an ardent believer in the minimum wage (at Auburn he pays his people from $8 to $9 per week) and in short hours (in Auburn he makes employees slave from ten to eleven hours per day and up to ten hours per night,) and since he is particularly interested in woman's work (in An-burn he employs exclusively women and girls because they work cheaper) we beg to suggest to him the names of some foreign localities where the poor people do not object "to live and labor under conditions that are injurious to the common welfare," and where rich men may "throw back upon the community the human wreckage" of their own making with impunity.

The following suggestions are quoted from the latest batch of European papers come to hand:

According to investigations by the Heidelberg Court of Commerce the average wage of needlewomen in that celebrated and beautiful city is from 25 to 40 marks per month ($6.25 to $10); we repeat, per month.

And the working hours are never less than twelve. If extended to fourteen or fifteen hours there is no extra compensation.

We should say that Heidelberg would exactly suit George W. Perkins to plant a factory in, especially as the "reform element" is not altogether lacking there.

"Every week," says the Commercial Court report, "the working women are treated to free lectures on ethics and hygienics."

Hygienics at $1.56 1/4 per week! Another minimum wage chance for Mr. Perkins:

The Royal Railway Commissioner in Altona advertised for railway guards and track walkers at the rate of one mark and twenty per day (30 cents), and got plenty of applicants, though the advertisement drew attention to the fact that there were no free lodgings.

And still another:
A landed proprietor in Regentia, Brandenburg pays his inspectors and overseers twenty marks ($5) per month in addition to board and lodging found.

If an inspector works for $5 a month George W. Perkins should be able to find in the same neighborhood plenty of women and girls eager to work for $1 or $1.25 per month.

An Insult to Nation.

It is an old saying that when the more disreputable sort of a lawyer sees defeat inevitable he abuses the opposing attorney. The third term candidate and his associate in the campaign to elect Woodrow Wilson and defeat President Taft begin to see that their program of party betrayal is bound to have no other result than their own discomfiture and, partly in a frenzy of disappointment, partly to divert popular attention from the real issues of the contest, they are sounding the lowest depths of blackguardism.

Hiram Johnson, the vermiform appendix of the third term, is reported to have used the following language before the Third term State convention in Ohio:

"It is with shame, as American citizens that I say that today the most humiliating character in all American history is the President of the United States."

The average American has supposed that the distinction stated by the blackguard comrade of Roosevelt belonged to one of several who might be named, including Benedict Arnold, John Wilkes Booth, Giteau and Czolgosz. These evidently are preferential—especially Czolgosz—in the esteem of Roosevelt's associate, and presumably also of Roosevelt himself—to President Taft.

Reckless, desperate, insanely vituperative as the third term team may be in their attacks on the honored occupant of the presidential chair, they ought to have sanity enough to remember that language such as the foregoing as an affront as much to the American people as to President Taft. As head of the nation criticism of his administration is in order, but attacks should stop short of infamous insult to the nation in the person of its chief magistrate. The citizens of Ohio who heard Johnson's disgusting tirade were as much the object of it as their man our President.

The campaign of anarchy has evidently degenerated into a campaign of indignity unprecedented in the political history of the United States, and which cannot fail to impress upon law-abiding citizens their imperative duty to support law and order, sanity and safety by re-electing President Taft.

The Derby Hat.

There are few men who deposit the straw hat in the attic and brush the dust off the derby with any satisfaction.

Although the derby has been prescribed by the autocracies of style for the last 30 years, it has never gained an ascendancy in communities where conventional forms do not prevail.

It lives its artificial life in cities and towns, where man is protected from the elements of big buildings, trains and street cars. Man never appears so helplessly unable to cope with his surroundings as on a windy day in the city, where his derby hat threatens every moment to blow into the gutter. His hands are busy with his bundles or his umbrella. His wooden like block of a hat will not protect itself by adjusting itself firmly to his head. The victim of style can keep covered only by pointing his head at the veering blast, that old Boreas may not get any leverage under the flat and protruding brim.

Out under the wide sky, where men must battle with the storms, few men wear derby hats, except tramps who accept the gift of one used by the householder when he dumps his ashes.

Even in cities the number of informal and unconventional people is growing, as seen by the large number of soft hats worn by stylish men. The worst objection to the soft hat for town life, is that you must lift it by the crown when you wish to recognize your women friends, which soon warps it away. The problem of winter head covering for men is far from settled.

Patriotic Japs kill themselves when the emperor dies. Patriotic Americans, when a president dies, hustle around to make themselves solid for an appointment under the new administration.

All the candidates have pledged to reduce the cost of living, but one or two of them have not assured the country that there will be plenty of rain.

The San Dominician rebels understand the philosophy of true living, as they never work when there is a custom house that can be broken into.

BULL MOOSE BLUNDERS.

(Muncie Press.)

Bull Moose Kurtz, a traveling man for Spencer & Hogan of Marion, put one over on himself at Dunkirk last week, and at the same time furnished an interesting commentary on the methods being used by bull moose politicians to spread the idea that the Republican party is down and out. Kurtz is one of a number of Indiana traveling men who are busily engaged in loudly spreading word that bull moose enthusiasm, like the milk sick, has taken everything over in the next township.

Entering the Fitzpatrick store at Dunkirk Thursday morning, Bull Moose Kurtz began recounting a tale of the awful frost suffered by the Republicans on Wednesday. "Why when Durbin opened the campaign there yesterday," declared Bull Moose Kurtz, "he had less than two hundred people in his audience."

"Sure of that?" queried Fitzpatrick.
"Why of course I'm sure," replied the bull moose. "Don't I live in Marion?"
"Yes," replied Fitzpatrick, "you live in Marion all right, but you've got your dates mixed. Durbin doesn't speak in Marion until this afternoon."
The underbrush crackled as the bull moose took to the tall timbers.

Editorialists.

We hope you will appreciate the weather this Society of Sylogism has been dishing up for you. The only possible objection you could find to it is the odor from burning leaves.

The Mikado has given Secretary Knox a handsome embroidered screen. This will be just the thing to hang up behind the kitchen stove to keep the wall from getting smoked.

Gov. Wilson did not want to eat dinner with Charley Murphy, but the latter was no doubt able to get something at the night lunch carts.

Just as the American people were getting through with the Rosenthal case and able to read the headlines about the presidential campaign, along comes the szabo case which will occupy their exclusive attention for another month.

Money is getting tight on Wall street, and many brokers are wishing they might return to the days when they were getting an honest living playing the shell game at the county fairs.

SEPTEMBER 20 IN HISTORY.

1804—Spain formally demanded America's complete renunciation of East and West Florida.

1829—French women were furnished with pins at the fashionable restaurants, sleeves being large enough to be inconvenient.

1840—Francis, dictator of Paraguay, died at Paraguay, at very advanced age.

1864—The draft was being put into force in nearly every Northern State.

1885—Reports were sent out from Cairo, Egypt, that Gordon had raised the siege of Khartum.

1904—Japanese renew attack on Port Arthur in endeavor to capture fort on Ehrlung Hill; two other forts reported captured.

1904—Russia declares England has broken faith by Tibetan treaty.

1911—Italy warns Turkey of her rights in Tripoli and threatens war more persistently than in any previous communication.

In Scotland during the month over one hundred thousand poor persons were in receipt of relief.

Visionary Tariff Wall.

In both Democratic and Bull Moose campaign arguments one finds frequent reference to the evil condition into which the country has fallen because of existing tariff laws. It is pointed out with all the seriousness that ordinarily goes with the statement of a fact that the tariff wall we have erected about the country prohibits the purchase of the products of foreign countries that our people need, and that, because of this, the balance of trade wobbles to our material disadvantages.

Strangely those who utter these statements seem never to have sought accurate information. The truth is that our purchases abroad are increasing with remarkable rapidity under existing tariff laws. At no period in the history of the nation have we bought proportionately so much abroad, and at the same time we are selling more abroad.

In July of this year we imported from Canada, even without reciprocity, eleven and a third million dollars worth of goods, as against eight and a quarter millions in July, 1911. Our imports from Europe in July, 1912, were $71,562,669, as against $58,742,331 in July, 1911. Total July imports were $148,547,946, as against $118,054,204 in July, 1911. On the other hand, our exports grew from $127,696,954 in July, 1911, to $148,994,023 in July, 1912. We shipped ten million dollars worth more goods to Canada in July of this year than in July last year. To every principal country our exports show an increase save to the countries of Oceania and Africa.

The increase of both our exports and import trade has been steady throughout the year. Total exports for the seven months ending July 31, 1912, were $1,248,610,226, against $1,115,517,494 for the corresponding seven months of last year. Our imports for the seven months of 1912 were $1,033,199,690, against $881,800,156 for the corresponding months of last year.

Not one of these facts, which are taken from the records of the Department of Commerce and Labor, coincide with the statements made by Democratic and Bull Moose campaigners.

Trade increase is an index of prosperity. When that increase is found in foreign as well as domestic trade it testifies a healthy condition. Still we are told that our tariff laws are stifling trade and doing us harm. Oddly no one has produced the corroborating facts to support such an assertion.

Chairman Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, announced that a complete record of all contributions of the presidential campaign of the Republican party will be published for the inspection and consideration of the voters of the country shortly after October 15.

It is the opinion of Chairman Hilles that the Congressional Campaign Fund Publicity Act, signed by President Taft on August 19, 1911, contains specific provision that all national committees, whether organized merely for the furtherance of congressional campaign or for the election of a national ticket must make public their campaign contributions not more than fifteen days and not less than ten days prior to the elections. Mr. Hilles, therefore, says that the Republican National Committee, in making this announcement, does not do so in the hope of being declared virtuous, and takes a fling at the Democratic National Committee for striking such a pose upon making a similar announcement.

Suggestions For Perkins.

Between prosecutions by the legislature of the State of New York, probably dissolution proceedings by Mr. Taft's attorney general and further prosecutions for violation of the labor law, George W. Perkins, Bull Moose backer and social reformer may be compelled to eventually seek other fields for his Harvester Trust factory. Since Mr. Perkins is an ardent believer in the minimum wage (at Auburn he pays his people from $8 to $9 per week) and in short hours (in Auburn he makes employees slave from ten to eleven hours per day and up to ten hours per night,) and since he is particularly interested in woman's work (in An-labor under conditions that are injurious to the common welfare," and where rich men may "tarrow back up on the community the human wreckage" of their own making with impunity.

The following suggestions are quoted from the latest batch of European papers come to hand:

According to investigations by the Heidelberg Court of Commerce the average wage of needlewomen in that celebrated and beautiful city is from 25 to 40 marks per month ($6.25 to $10); we repeat, per month.

And the working hours are never less than twelve. If extended to fourteen or fifteen hours there is no extra compensation.

We should say that Heidelberg would exactly suit George W. Perkins to plant a factory in, especially as the "reform element" is not altogether lacking there.

"Every week," says the Commercial Court report, "the working women are treated to free lectures on ethics and hygienics."

Hygienics at $1.56 1/4 per week! Another minimum wage chance for Mr. Perkins:

The Royal Railway Commissioner in Altona advertised for railway guards and track walkers at the rate of one mark and twenty per day (30 cents), and got plenty of applicants, though the advertisement drew attention to the fact that there were no free lodgings.

And still another:

A landed proprietor in Regenthin, Brandenburg pays his inspectors and overseers twenty marks ($5) per month in addition to board and lodging found.

If an inspector works for $5 a month George W. Perkins should be able to find in the same neighborhood plenty of women and girls eager to work for $1 or $1.25 per month.

An Insult to Nation.

It is an old saying that when the more disreputable sort of a lawyer sees defeat inevitable he abuses the opposing attorney. The third term candidate and his associate in the campaign to elect Woodrow Wilson and defeat President Taft begin to see that their program of party betrayal is bound to have no other result than their own discomfiture and, partly in a frenzy of disappointment, partly to divert popular attention from the real issues of the contest, they are sounding the lowest depths of blackguardism.

Hiram Johnson, the vermiform appendix of the third term, is reported to have used the following language before the Third term State convention in Ohio:

"It is with shame, as American citizens that I say that today the most humiliating character in all American history is the President of the United States."

The average American has supposed that the distinction stated by the blackguard comrade of Roosevelt belonged to one of several who might be named, including Benedict Arnold, John Wilkes Booth, Guiteau and Czolgosz. These evidently are preferential—especially Czolgosz—in the esteem of Roosevelt's associate, and presumably also of Roosevelt himself—to President Taft.

Reckless, desperate, insanely vituperative as the third term team may be in their attacks on the honored occupant of the presidential chair, they ought to have sanity enough to remember that language such as the foregoing as an affront as much to the American people as to President Taft. As head of the nation criticism of his administration is in order, but attacks should stop short of infamous insult to the nation in the person of its chief magistrate. The citizens of Ohio who heard Johnson's disgusting tirade were as much the gained an accuracy in communities where conventional forms do not prevail.

It lives its artificial life in cities and towns, where man is protected from the elements of big buildings, trains and street cars. Man never appears so helplessly unable to cope with his surroundings as on a windy day in the city, where his dignity threatens every moment to blow into the gutter. His hands are busy with his bundles or his umbrella. His wooden like block of a hat will not protect itself by adjusting itself firmly to his head. The victim of style can keep covered only by pointing his head at the veering blast, that old Boreas may not get any leverage under the flat and protruding brim.

Out under the wide sky, where men must battle with the storms, few men wear derby hats, except tramps who accept the gift of one used by the householder when he dumps his ashes.

Even in cities the number of informal and unconventional people is growing, as seen by the large number of soft hats worn by stylish men. The worst objection to the soft hat for town life, is that you must lift it by the crown when you wish to recognize your women friends, which soon warps it away. The problem of winter head covering for men is far from settled.

Patriotic Japs kill themselves when the emperor dies. Patriotic Americans, when a president dies, hustle around to make themselves solid for an appointment under the new administration.

All the candidates have pledged to reduce the cost of living, but one or two of them have not assured the country that there will be plenty of rain.

The San Dominican rebels understand the philosophy of true living, as they never work when there is a custom house that can be broken into.

BULL MOOSE BLUNDERS.

(Muncie Press.)

Bull Moose Kurtz, a traveling man for Spencer & Hogan of Marion, put one over on himself at Dunkirk last week, and at the same time furnished an interesting commentary on the methods being used by bull moose politicians to spread the idea that the Republican party is down and out. Kurtz is one of a number of Indiana traveling men who are busily engaged in loudly spreading word that bull moose enthusiasm, like the milk sick, has taken everything over in the next township.

Entering the Fitzpatrick store at Dunkirk Thursday morning, Bull Moose Kurtz began recounting a tale of the awful frost suffered by the Republicans on Wednesday. "Why when Durbin opened the campaign there yesterday," declared Bull Moose Kurtz, "he had less than two hundred people in his audience."

"Sure of that?" queried Fitzpatrick.
"Why of course I'm sure," replied the bull moose. "Don't I live in Marion?"
"Yes," replied Fitzpatrick, "you live in Marion all right, but you've got your dates mixed. Durbin doesn't speak in Marion until this afternoon."
The underbrush crackled as the bull moose took to the tall timbers.

prices warm enough to get them to come out. We make that announcement, not that we thought it would be interesting, but to show you how impossible it is to beat the business of the old hen.

We can't quite figure on buying any coal until we pay for that last one book.

Rushville might comb its hair and look real egotistical now that the Methodist conference is coming here next year.

A Nevada man wants to be shot instead of hanged. Now if that fellow were in Greensburg we couldn't blame him much. It would relieve the agony quicker.

We don't expect to nose in politics much this year, but with the promise of a perfectly good pumpkin, we might be induced to vote for somebody.

The Mikado has given Secretary Knox a handsome embroidered screen. This will be just the thing to hang up behind the kitchen stove to keep the wall from getting smoked.

Gov. Wilson did not want to eat dinner with Charley Murphy, but the latter was no doubt able to get something at the night lunch carts.

Just as the American people were getting through with the Rosenthal case and able to read the headlines about the presidential campaign, along comes the szabo case which will occupy their exclusive attention for another month.

DON COCHRAN.

Don Cochran, who is Dr. Biederwolf's advance man, has proved himself to be the right man in the right place since he arrived in Rushville. He has the work of building tabernacles well in hand, and sets a pace that gets the most work in the very shortest time.

His home is in Monticello, Indiana. He has been with Dr. Biederwolf for two years, excepting a few months Biederwolf was engaged in the work of the Men and Religion Forward Movement.

He hopes to have the building ready by Saturday night and this will be done if everybody will help a little.

be held responsible for the actions of his son, who was driving the automobile when the accident occurred, which accounts for this step in the case.

The case of Jesse E. Creed of Mammilla against John W. Gabimer of the same place for $500 damages, which was set for trial today, was continued on a motion of the plaintiff. Creed alleges Gabimer, who operated a garage, threw poisoned material in his pasture and his horse ate it and died.

In the case of the claim of $61.98, filed by Robert S. Longfellow against himself as administrator of the estate of John Souther, deceased, Eugene C. Miller was appointed to investigate the claim and report back to the court.

The condemnation proceedings brought by Center school township through its trustee, Chester D. Rhodes, against Sam Cobee, which was set for trial today, was continued until tomorrow. The trustee sought to condemn a piece of ground in Mays, belonging to the defendant, for school purposes. A board of appraisers assessed the damages and the trustee has filed exceptions to the report.

The case of John Pugsley against the Big Four for $500 damages today was set for trial Friday, September 27. Also the case of the Edward Thompson Company against Sexton, on a note, demanding $60 was set for trial Saturday, September 28.

The case of the Rushville National bank against C. J. Bickhart, Owen L. Carr and Nannie Bickhart, on notes and to foreclose a mortgage held as collateral, was submitted on the complaint today, and finding and judgment, by agreement, on the complaint was returned against the defendants on principal and interest on note.

The case of James H. Hinchman against James F. Sweet, on a note, demanding $175 was dismissed today.

RUSHVILLE SENDS MANY TO COLLEGE

Exodus of Local Young People to Higher Institutions of Learning Begins.

SCATTERED OVER THE COUNTRY

At this time of the year the big colleges and universities scattered all over the United States take on the properties of a huge magnet and boys and girls from every town leave their friends behind them and enter the doors of the large educational institutions with the intention of so improving their education that they will find something worth while in life besides making money and growing fat.

A few of them fail to carry out their initial purpose and in a short time are making names for themselves, not as orators, not as thinkers, not as students, but as "sports." As one business man once said, "That is what makes every business man hesitate to send his boy off to college. The business man has no time to 'break in' the 'sport.' He wants a boy who is trained."

The same business man, who by the way was a former Chicago meat packer and who had worked his way up from the bottom said also that a college made a boy. If he was a fool when he went he would be a bigger fool when he got out, but if he had the making of a man in him he would be a man, whose services would be sought after, when he graduated.

SOCIETY NEWS

Miss Marie Clark will entertain the Embroidery club Saturday afternoon.

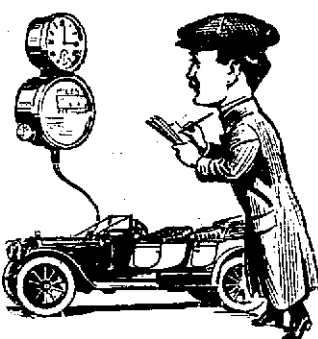

Mrs. Emma C. Fall announces the engagement of her daughter Reba to Claude Riggsbee of near Arlington, says the Carthage Citizen. The wedding will take place in October.

It has been announced that the marriage of Paschal Robertson, a young farmer of this county, residing south of town, and Miss Andra Branson, a well known young lady of near New Palestine, will be solemnized within the very near future, probably next Sunday, says the Shelbyville News. Mr. Robertson came to this city from Moscow, Rush county, and for a time worked at the Clark motor factory, but during the past season has been farming for himself on a farm south of this city.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers for the first picture tonight a Vitagraph drama of unusual interest entitled "The Foster Child." It is a gripping drama telling a story of human interest. The other is a Pathe Mexican picture, "His Wife's Old Sweetheart." Both are said to be exceptionally good pictures.

The Sable Lorcha

BY Horace Hazeltine

(Copyright, 1912, A. C. McClure & Co.)

"No. He answers questions. But he never says anything for himself. And, Philip, he looks so pinched and old and pale! And his hands are so cold. The nurse has taken away his pillows and raised his feet, and—it's gruesome, that's the only word that describes it."

"But he'll soon be better? The doctor said that, didn't he?"

"Yes. He said that."

But the reaction which usually follows shock was only partial in Cameron's case, and for days his life was in danger. Then followed a period of slow, general recovery.

As the month of October progressed I feared the liability to relapse. I knew, instinctively, with what dread sensations he must be awaiting the fourteenth of the month. He had been forbidden, of course, to receive any mail, just as he had been denied visitors; but I felt that in an uncertainty that must of necessity prove injurious. And so I took Dr. Massey, in a measure, into my confidence, and gained from him permission to see Cameron for a brief moment.

"He has been asking for you," the physician informed me, "but I fancied it better to make no exceptions. Now, however, I see that you may be a help instead of a hindrance."

Despite the more or less circumstantial reports as to his condition and appearance which had filtered to me from the sick room, through the medium of Evelyn, Miss Collins, the nurse, and Dr. Massey and his assistant, Dr. Thorne, I was not altogether prepared for the marked change which less than three weeks had wrought in my friend. He was peaked and bloodless and tired and old. And his voice was little more than a whisper.

He made a brave effort to smile, as I came in, but it resulted in a sad grimacing failure. I lifted one of his thin, clammy hands which lay inert on the coverlid, but it gave me only the feeblest answering pressure.

"I'm so glad you're better," I told him, cheerily. "Fancy the doctor allowing me to see you! That shows what he thinks."

"Yes," he whispered, "I'm coming round, slowly. And I wanted to see you, Clyde. What day of the month is this?"

"The twelfth."

"Day after tomorrow, it will come," he said.

"Don't be too sure," I replied. "I think they've done about enough to satisfy any ordinary villains."

He was silent for a moment. Then, with just the faintest turn of his head from side to side, he said:

"But they are not ordinary villains."

"Well," I said, "if it does come, I shall find out how it got here; and that will be a step towards bringing them to justice."

"You'll find out?" he queried, incredulously.

"Yes. I'll get your mail that day, myself. I'll tell that monument of pomposity, your butler, Mr. Checkabeedy, that I am to see every letter that comes to the house and know how and by whom it is delivered. Letters can't get here without hands, you know."

"Other things seem to be done without hands," was his conclusive comment; and I had no reply for him. Concerning Murphy and the murdered Chinaman, Cameron did not ask, and I was glad he did not. For

Murphy had been discharged from custody, for lack of evidence; and though there were some desultory efforts making to place the blame for the Celestial's violent taking-off, I doubted that they would have practicable result.

The precautions against surprise on the fourteenth, which I had outlined so briefly to Cameron, I carried out with added detail. For instance, I instructed Romney to report to me every person who passed in or out of the gates guarded by his Lodge. I had Kilgour, the superintendent of the Cameron acres, issue similar orders to his men concerning any strangers seen on the estate that day. And, finally, when not fetching the mail from the post office, myself—and four times I made the trip—I sat on guard in Cameron's study, waiting and expectant.

But the day passed, it seemed, without the looked-for incident. Every letter, by post or by hand, which came that day, inside the Cragholt limits was by me personally inspected, and amongst them all there was no one which bore the faintest resemblance to those two baleful missives of the two preceding fourteenth.

When I had made my last trip to the post office, finished my final inspection, and was almost jubilant over the significant cessation of the threats which, in their ultimate fulfillment at least, had brought my friend so close to dissolution, I made haste to carry to Cameron the glad news. Oddly enough, his condition in the past forty-eight hours had materially improved, and as Dr. Massey attributed this, in part at least, to the influence exerted by my brief visit, I was now permitted to repeat the treatment at pleasure.

It wanted but a few minutes of eight o'clock, and Checkabeedy seized the occasion to inform me, as I passed through the hall, that dinner had been waiting for nearly a half-hour; a fact which I knew quite as well as he, but when I had chosen to disregard in favor of more pressing and important employment. Nevertheless I had dressed before going for the last mail, and as a moment would suffice to assure Cameron that all was well, I relieved the mind of the distressed butler, by assuring him that dinner should not wait over five minutes longer, so far as I was concerned.

A very light tap on the chamber door was answered by Miss Collins, who came out into the passage and closed the door behind her.

"I fear it is not advisable for you to see him, now, Mr. Clyde," she said. "He has suddenly had a return of some of his worst symptoms, and I am sure Dr. Massey would object to his being at all excited."

"But I shan't excite him," I explained. "I have the very best of news for him. It is his anxiety over a certain matter, no doubt, which has brought about the symptoms you speak of. I know I can relieve his mind, which I have reason to believe has been all day under an unusual strain."

But still this efficient-looking, white-clad woman was not wholly convinced.

"It must be only for a minute then," she finally allowed. "You can go in alone. But at the end of sixty seconds," she added, as she glanced at the little gold watch she wore pinned to her spool waist, "I shall interrupt you; and then you must leave."

Yielding, perforce, to her condition, I entered. And as I did so, Cameron half rose on his elbow, regarding me with what I thought was anxiety for my report.

"It's all right," I said, quietly. "All right. Not so much as a line from the enemy. They have withdrawn, just as I—"

But he interrupted me.

"Here, quick!" he was saying. "Take this!" And I saw then that one hand was drawing something from beneath his pillow. The next moment he had given me a long envelope of that thin, waxy texture I had learned to loathe.

For a heartbeat I stood appalled, transfixed.

"Quick!" he insisted, excitedly. "Open it! Read it! She'll not leave us long and I must know its contents."

"But how—" I began, as I tore the end of the envelope.

"God knows," he answered, before I had put my question into words. "I had been dozing; about an hour ago. I stretched out my hand, unconsciously, and that lay beneath it, on the counterpane. It cracked as I touched it; and I knew then, even before I recognized the feel of it."

Sixty seconds! Was there ever such an interminable period? Sixty long seconds before that door would open with the interruption that would spare me. I fumbled with the devilish paper; let it slip through my fingers; tore a bit here and a bit there; finished the tearing; and then, dissembling, began tearing the other end. And still the seconds lagged; still the door remained stationary.

"My God, Clyde!" Cameron cried, in a frenzy of impatience. "What's the matter with you tonight? Are you never going to get that thing open?"

And then I, desperate, too, with eyes fixed imploringly on the door, was about to answer him with the truth—that I did not want to open it; that I would not, could not read the contents; that he must wait and trust me, absolutely—when, quite without design on my part, the envelope fell to the rug at my feet. And as I stooped to recover it, I heard the door-knob turn.

When I regained the upright, Miss Collins was entering, and the letter was in the pocket of my dinner jacket.

"And so you see, Cameron," I said, speaking distinctly and with double purpose, the nurse being in ear-shot, "everything is quite right. The matter you spoke of shall be attended to, at once, and I'll report to you, tonight—before ten o'clock, surely."

The reproach in his eyes stung me, and the pain of it followed me from the room and stabbed me at intervals during dinner. And yet it was not the part of sanity to have acted otherwise than I did. The temptation had occurred to me to invent phrases and sentences expressive of satisfaction over the effort of the previous communications. But I doubted that, in my agitation, I should be successful in the deception. And so, my only course had been delay—stupid, bungling, palpable delay it was, I suppose, but after all it had served; and, though it left Cameron in doubt, it gave me time and opportunity to arrange some plan for extracting the fangs of this epistolary adder before it could strike its prey.

Purposely I delayed reading the letter, myself, until after I had dined. I chose uncertainty as to its contents as less likely noticeably to affect my demeanor than an exact knowledge of the minatory message which I felt sure it carried.

I think I fancied I should be able to conceal my real state of mind. Certainly I will to do so. But I was very soon conscious that Evelyn had divined my dissimulation. Her eyes became suddenly grave and questioning, her laughter quieted, and her conversation, which had been glad and gay, relaxed abruptly into the serious. When the coffee and liqueurs had been brought on, Mrs. Lancaster asked to be excused, and left us alone together.

There followed then a moment of silence between us, while I selected a cigarette and lighted it. She had edged her chair a little closer to me—she was sitting on my right, as usual—and leaned forward, her slender but divinely rounded forearms extended across the shining damask of the tablecloth.

As I dropped my match upon the tiny silver tray which the inimitable Checkabeedy had placed conveniently at my elbow I turned to her and saw her question in her imploring gaze and attitude even before she voiced it.

"Tell me!" was what she said. And although I knew that she would demand it I was unprepared. To gain time rather than information I bade her be more explicit.

"Everything," she pursued, inclusively, with a peremptory emphasis which indicated her determination not to be denied.

My hesitation resulted in some amplification on her part. She was impatient as well as resolved, and resented what she interpreted as my reluctance to gratify her.

"Everything," she repeated. "Everything that you have been hiding from me from the first. I am entitled

FRECKLE FACE

New Remedy That Removes Freckles or Costs Nothing.

Here's a chance Miss Freckle-Face to try a new remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while if it does give you a clear complexion, the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength, from any first-class druggist and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

to know. What about the head that was cut from the portrait? What was it that caused the shocks which brought on Uncle Robert's illness? Why did you go for the mail four times today, and sit all the rest of the time in Uncle Robert's study? What has happened to make him worse this afternoon? What is troubling you, now? I'm not a child, I'm a woman, and I refuse to be kept in ignorance any longer."

She was glorious as she thus formulated her demands, her cheeks blazing, her eyes brilliant, her voice a crescendo. She must have seen my admiration. Certainly I made no attempt to hide it; and before she had quite finished I had possessed myself of her clasped hands, and was bestowing upon them an applauding pressure.

And her argument prevailed. She knew too much not to know more. Cameron's wishes in the matter could no longer be regarded. Just how tactfully I managed the disclosure, it is not for me to judge. Perhaps I told more than I should. Possibly I revealed too little. I was guided solely by the wish not to alarm her, unduly. And yet, as nearly every feature of the affair was of necessity alarming, it became a vexing problem as to what to include and what to omit.

Eventually she heard the whole story, every phase of it. And so it is not altogether clear in my memory how much I conveyed that night and how much was left for me to add ten days later.

There is no question, however, regarding that third letter which had been so mysteriously received that day. I drew it from the envelope, there, at the table, and we read it together, by the light of the pink-shaded candles; our chairs touching and her cool little left hand clasped hard in my sinewy right.

As I spread the sheet that sinister appearing black daub at the bottom smote me with a sense of ill as acutely poignant as a rapier thrust, and the heavy, regular, upright chirography, with its odd f's and p's, so awesomely familiar, was scarcely less disturbing.

Silently the girl and I ran through the dozen lines.

Like its two predecessors the letter began with the sentence:

"That which you have wrought shall in turn be wrought upon you."

No longer could this be regarded as idle boasting. It had become an edict of grave significance. And what followed only emphasized the proven force behind this series of singular communications.

"All having been performed as foretold, our power is demonstrated."

Then, simply, almost crudely, but of horrid poignancy, ran the words:

"Know then, that before the morning of the Eighth Day hence, as passed the face from the portrait, as passed the reflection from the mirror, so you, physically, will pass from sight of men into torment."

As I read my breath caught in my throat and my pulses paused. Evelyn pressed closer to my side, and I felt her shiver as with cold. The final words, solemn, admonitory, priest-like, were these:

"Say not Heaven is high above! Heaven ascends and descends about our deeds, daily inspecting us, where-soever we are."

Instantly she turned to me, and I saw there were tears on her cheeks, and that her long dark lashes were wet.

"You cannot tell him this, Philip," she said, her voice low but unflinching.

"No," I replied, "I cannot tell him. In his present condition, it might be fatal."

T. R. Bolters Returning.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 20.—Scouts sent out by the Republican headquarters here to see what results would be obtained from the Bull Moose tour, are reporting a great defection from the third party to the regular Republicans. The poor showing made in the Western States, where the Progressives made the greatest profession of strength, has discouraged the bolters, and they are anxious to get back into line and work against Wilson, no longer fearing the success of Roosevelt.

AN ENGAGEMENT IS THREATENED

American Forces Opposed by Nicaraguan Rebels.

THE ADVANCE UPON GRENADA

When a Detachment Under Major Butler Was Sent to Open Up Communications With Beleaguered City, It Was Fired Upon by the Rebels, This Act Creating Situation Which May Precipitate a Serious Engagement.

Washington, Sept. 20.—It having become known that the opposition to the advance of the American forces is threatened by the rebels at a point between Managua, the capital, and Granada, the chief rebel stronghold, the Nicaraguan situation has taken a sudden and acute turn. Reinforcements have been hurried forward from Managua, with Admiral Southerland in personal command, and it is expected that if the rebels persist in their opposition an engagement may take place.

Admiral Southerland reported that he was sending Major McKelvey with a battalion of marines and Lieutenant Commander Long with a company of bluejackets to reinforce Major Butler, who started for Granada four days ago. The admiral stated that he was accompanying the force, and also reported that two three-inch field guns were being taken along.

The purpose of the advance toward Granada is to open communication with that city which have been cut off for nearly two months, or ever since General Mena took his soldiers and police out of Managua and bombarded that city. Most shocking conditions have been reported to the American legation in Managua as prevailing in Granada under the rebel domination of the place.

According to unofficial advices received here Major Butler's forces were fired on by the rebels when his trains approached Mazaya. Major Butler withdrew and sent a note to Zeledon, the rebel general, stating that he desired only to open the railroad to Granada and that he preferred to do it peacefully. He added that if no reply was received from Zeledon by four o'clock, he would begin his advance. Zeledon replied before the hour, stating he would be glad to talk it over with Major Butler the next morning. From the fact that reinforcements are now being hurried to Major Butler, it is inferred that Zeledon has declined to permit the Americans to pass peacefully through Mazaya.

A recent dispatch from Minister Welzel states that confirmation of the slaying of two Americans, named Craven and Dodd, by rebels at Leon has been received. It seems that Craven was wounded in the fighting, during which 500 federals were slaughtered and had entered a house for refuge. Dodd was there caring for Craven. Both were unarmed. The house was broken into by rebels and both men were then deliberately murdered on the spot.

TIME EXTENDED

Convicted Labor Leaders Have Until November to Complete Appeal.

Washington, Sept. 20.—President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor have been granted until Nov. 1 to complete their appeal to the district appellate court from their conviction for alleged contempt of court by Judge Wright. The cases will not be argued until next February.

Gompers was sentenced to a year in jail, Mitchell to nine months and Morrison to six months.

Had a Good Effect.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—Reports to the state board of health for August show that the board's crusade to compel complete compliance with the statistical laws is bearing fruit. More than one hundred more births were reported in the state that month than in July. The total in August was 4,795 and the total in July was 4,653.

London, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the actress, is seriously ill at her home in Kensington. Her illness is the result of a motor accident last July which was followed by a chill.

ACCUSED OF HOLDING OUT PUBLIC RECORDS

Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray in Trouble in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 20.—On a warrant sworn out at the instance of the secretary of the interior, Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray, who attracted some attention last winter by her activity before congress committees in relation to Indian matters, was arrested, charging her with having forcibly retained certain public records taken from the files of the interior department relating to Crow Indian affairs. She was held to bail in the sum of $1000. She admitted that she had certain papers and had refused to return them. Mrs. Gray explained that the papers had been at the department of justice all the while, and since her arrest were placed at the disposition of the secretary of the interior. Mrs. Gray has been in Washington for three or four years. Formerly she was on the Crow Indian reservation in Montana and was the central figure in several varieties of excitement while there. Subsequently she appeared in Washington ostensibly in the interests of the Indians.

"These records which I am accused of stealing," said Mrs. Gray, "are now safely locked up at the department of justice. They involve more than $100,000,000 worth of property, of which the Crow Indians, whom I represent, are the legitimate owners."

Lost Him a Nice Job.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Harry E. Nolan, the young man who was released from police custody in New York a few days ago because of lack of evidence to prove charges of abduction, will not enter the diplomatic service to which he held the appointment of secretary of the American legation at Panama, when arrested about two weeks ago. In an official statement of the case, Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson said that Nolan, from motives of delicacy, would prefer not to ask for an appointment at this time.

FUNDS ARE NOT PLentiful

Democrats' Appeal to Rank and File Not Working.

New York, Sept. 20.—Word has gone around that the saying "all is well and the goose hangs high" is not pertinent to the treasury of the Democratic Committee. Since the committee commenced publishing its campaign contributions the members have been scared for not giving in the expenses. One of the members is quoted as saying that "Wilson would be defeated tomorrow, if the voters knew how little support his campaign is receiving financially." This can only be realized by balancing accounts. Publishing the expense, it is feared, would show too many drastic ways of creating Wilson sentiment that is not genuine. But Republicans are making good use of the rumor.

The silk production of Japan has nearly doubled in the last ten years.

KILLED PEOPLE FOR RESISTING

Emilio Campa's Reign of Terror in Sonora.

HAS LOOTED ANOTHER TOWN

Breaking Away From Altar Where the Federals Thought They Had Him "Bottled Up," Bloodthirsty Rebel Leader Makes a Raid Upon Caborca, Which He Looted, Killing Many of the Inhabitants Who Resisted.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 20.—Reported by the Mexican federals as "bottled up" south of Altar in Sonora, which he looted this week, Emilio Campa has made a raid on Caborca, Sonora. He looted the entire town, killing many of the people of the place for resisting him. The storekeepers had heard of the atrocities committed by Campa in other places and put up a fight of resistance. After looting the place, Campa left for Noria, which is only sixty miles south of the international line from Douglas, Ariz. At Noria he will be joined, he said by the rebel command of Escubosa.

Additional Mexican federal troops are to be sent across the United States for fighting the rebels in Sonora, according to announcement of General Augustin Sanjines, main federal commander at Agua Prieta.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, sr., father of the rebel general, was arraigned at Marfa, Tex., on the charge of murder, made by the Mexican consul there in an effort to extradite him. The United States has an indictment here against him, charging ammunition smuggling and will insist that he be tried first on this charge, according to United States officials here.

Eighty federals near Musquiz, Coahuila, were defeated by 250 rebels, a large number of the federals being killed.

READY TO BOLT

Not All New York Democrats Stand For Boss Murphy.

New York, Sept. 20.—What the Empire State Democracy calls a finish fight to end the domination of Charles F. Murphy over the Democratic party of this state, was agreed upon in a meeting here. To this end an entire state ticket was nominated.

The circulation of petitions to get the ticket on the ballots will begin immediately. The law is that there must be 6,000 signers for the whole state and at least fifty in every county.

If the coming Democratic convention should nominate a ticket not dictated by Mr. Murphy and his associates and acceptable to the Empire State Democrats, the latter's candidates will be withdrawn and the bolters will return to the regular party.

The Empire State Democracy concludes that "by nominating a state ticket at this time we give assurances to those Democratic voters that there will be in November Democratic candidates for state offices worthy of their support."

DEFIED COURT

And For His Pains Blind Tiger Keeper Gets Record Sentence.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 20.—A record for "blind tiger" sentences was made when Joseph Randolph, on a plea of guilty to operating an unlicensed drinking place, was fined and sentenced to serve 450 days in jail. He will be released from prison in 1914, if no part of the penalty is revoked. Randolph got the limit because he not only is an old offender, but because he said to the court: "You might as well make my fine $1,000—it will do you as much good, because you won't get a cent, anyway."

Randolph charged the police department with showing favoritism to certain "blind tiger" operators.

Detroit Welcomes Wilson.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—Woodrow Wilson's train passed through the towns of Niles, Dowagiac, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Albion, Jackson, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti on his way from Chicago to Detroit, where he spoke last night. The governor was called to the rear platform in every city by interested crowds. A crowd that overflowed the armory greeted Governor Wilson here.

May Die as Result of Hazing.

Middletown, O., Sept. 20.—Gordon Kyle, a freshman in the Middletown high school, lies at the point of death at his home at Kyle Station as the result of a hazing. He was compelled to push a pencil across the floor of the gymnasium with his nose, and while doing so he was urged along by being frequently kicked with the result that his spine has been seriously injured.

An Extension of the Recall.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 20.—Colonel Roosevelt came out squarely in a speech to 15,000 people packing the auditorium here in favor of the recall of president for inefficiency or misconduct in office. The boldness and novelty of the proposition advanced by the colonel were such as to make the crowd gasp and then it testified its approval by thunderous applause.

THE HORSE PLAGUE REMAINS UNCHECKED

Kansas Farmers Face a Serious Condition.

Kansas City, Sept. 20.—Retarding fall plowing, besides the loss of thousands of horses, the horse plague, which has caused great loss to Kansas farmers, remains unchecked and in a large part unexplained. The Kansas university veterinarians claim to have proven that the disease is similar to spinal meningitis and that it is not contagious. The germ is believed to come from a fungus growth in the grass, due either to the severe winter or wet spring. Twenty-six counties in the western part of the state are the severest sufferers. In hundreds of cases farmers are left without a single horse or cow.

The disease has appeared in Oklahoma, Nebraska and Missouri. Missouri authorities have called a meeting of the board of agriculture and state veterinarians to be held here tomorrow to determine whether to bar all feed stuff from Kansas this winter. The number of horses lost by the disease will total close to ten thousand.

Robbers Escape in Auto.

Washington, Ind., Sept. 20.—Robbers ransacked ten business houses at Montgomery, seven miles east of here, escaping in an automobile with $200 worth of plunder.

TRAIN WILL GO OVER BIG FOUR

L. E. & W. Unable to Supply Special For Newcastle and Other Arrangements Are Made.

WILL LEAVE HERE AT 11:30

Manager Maibaugh Signs Roy Golden of Cincinnati Who Will be in Game Sunday.

Owing to the failure of the L. E. & W. railway to supply a special train to Newcastle Sunday for the ball game between Rushville and the Maxwell teams, a change in arrangements has been made. The special will be run over the Big Four instead of the L. E. & W. as was first announced.

It was only after the hardest kind of work that Manager Maibaugh secured the special train over the Big Four and the fans will not be disappointed. The train will be run by the way of Shirley. Because the distance over the Big Four is somewhat farther, the train will leave here at 11:30 o'clock and returning leave Newcastle at 6 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be the same as over the other road.

For a time this morning it seemed doubtful whether a train would be secured, but the new arrangements will prove satisfactory because the large crowd of rooters do not care how they get to Newcastle, just as long as they get there.

Rather than disappoint the people the train was secured. The special will stop at Carthage and Knightstown and many people from these two towns will make the trip. It is estimated that the crowd will be larger than that which made the trip to the first game between the two teams at Newcastle.

Interest in the game continues to increase. Rushville will go there with the intention of bringing home the bacon and to do this it will be necessary to play great ball. The locals are confident of winning, especially so since it took Newcastle ten innings to beat them in the first game. One of the features of the game will be the pennant raising. The pennant of the State League won by Newcastle will be unfurled at Maxwell park. The Arlington band which will accompany the local team will give a concert before the game.

Manager Maibaugh has a nice little surprise to spring on the fans in the way of a new pitcher. He has succeeded in signing Roy Golden of Cincinnati. Golden has a record about a mile long and only last Sunday beat the Shamrocks, letting them down with only three hits and without a run. Maibaugh has been after Golden for some time, but did not succeed in landing him until this week. Golden will start the game at Newcastle and if he goes bad, Halterman or Avery will be put in. "Chick" Avery is "crazy" to get a try at Newcastle and if he does not break in Sunday will be given a chance at them in the game here September 29.

The Rushville team will line-up as follows: Finn, 3d; Carter, ss; Halterman, 1st; Cook, 2d; Dave Anderson, cf; Harrell, rf; Thomas, 1st; Bob Anderson, c; Golden, Avery or Halterman, pitch.

APPOINTED INSPECTOR.

Greenfield Republican: Miss Bessie Kinsley, a member of Upsilon Chapter of the Tri Kappa sorority of this city has been notified of her appointment as district inspector for the sorority. This is an honorary position and the appointment is made by the grand president, Miss Hazel Harrison of Columbia City. The State is divided into four districts.

IT HAS A MEANING.

Kokomo Tribune: "Don't pass prosperity up" is the pithy campaign slogan of Colonel Durbin. And that is a fetching campaign cry which has a meaning. The people in 1892 made the mistake of passing prosperity up and thereafter for four years there was no prosperity to pass around.

SPARKS IS NAMED ADMINISTRATOR

Rushville Attorney Appointed to Settle Estate of Late Charles Campbell.

HE HAS TO GIVE $120,000 BOND

Will M. Sparks has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Charles H. Campbell of Shelbyville. The bond was $120,000, an affidavit being made that the personal estate has a value of $60,000. His sureties are the widow, Mrs. Angeline Campbell of Shelbyville, and Messrs. James V. Young, George W. Young, A. L. Gary, Will M. Frazee, Claude Cambern, L. Link of this city and Thomas K. Mull of Maunula. It is said he will also be appointed guardian of the minor children. It has been found that Mr. Campbell left no will. Judge Sparks became acquainted with Mr. Campbell during the six years he presided as judge of the Rush-Shelby circuit court.

UNKNOWN MAN'S BODY IS BURIED

Stranger Who Dropped Dead in Knightstown is Never Identified.

MAY HAVE BEEN FROM SHELBY

The body of John Monroe, John Monroe Walker or John Montgomery, whose death occurred at the boarding house of Mrs. Carrie Shook, one week ago last Sunday evening, was taken from the Decker vault in Glencoe cemetery Wednesday and interred in the Knightstown cemetery, says the Knightstown Banner. The body was held for more than a week with no claimant.

Mrs. Shook received a letter the other day from Mrs. Arthur Talbert, rural route 1, Shelbyville, in which the writer states that the dead man's name was John Monroe; that he lived at their house all last winter and that she had known him ever since her girlhood days.

There was a story afloat that the unidentified man was John Montgomery of Kokomo, Ind., a rich seclude and wanderer, who owned considerable real estate in Howard county. Before the man died he said he owned property in Kokomo, but it is not known that he gave his name as Montgomery. Harry Pea of Rushville, who was well acquainted with Montgomery, says the description of the unidentified man answers to that of Montgomery.

TO SET ASIDE DEED.

Newcastle Courier: The H. Stratemeyer, Co., a Cincinnati corporation, has entered suit against Ella H. Buchtel and others of Knightstown to set aside a deed. It is charged that Mrs. Buchtel was owing the plaintiff and transferred real estate in order to keep from paying her indebtedness.
